Charge Against Wright Will Be Aired.

Investigating Committee Going at the Work Today.

Four More Senatorial Ballots Without a Change.

Bulla People's Utter Contempt for Everybody and Everything Except Their Delusion-Last Night's eet-Legislative Matters.

IBY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.1 SACRAMENTO, Jan. 16.-[Exclusive Dispatch. The allegations which speaker Wright was said to have made bout the receipt of $1650 to vote for Grant, which allegations he now declares were never uttered by him, have ufficed to set on foot an investigation that, at the outset, seems to be inter minable. Wright took the floor thi norning, and in a few hesitating words demanded the appointment of a com mittee to investigate the matter set ou in the article in the San Francisco Call. He did not venture on any denials.

Grove L. Johnson, who was primed for the occasion, thereupon shot in the following resolution, which, as will be seen, is very general in its terms: Whereas, direct charges have been made that improper means have been used to influence the action of Hon. Howard E. Wright, member of and Speaker of the Assembly, in the elec tion of United States Senator by the Legislature, and, whereas, it has been and are using illegal methods to influence the action of members of the As sembly in said election; and, whereas such charges have been given wide the end that, if found to be true, the guilty should be punished, and if found to be untrue, the originators thereof should be punished; now, there-

"Resolved, that a select committee of even members of the Assembly be appointed by the Speaker pro tem to im mediately and fully, thoroughly and carefully investigate each and all of said charges, whether direct or indirect, and also to investigate, in like manner, the method used to influence nembers of the Assembly in their votes for United States Senator, and that said committee have full power to send for persons, books, telegrams and papers, and to employ a clerk and stenographer, and that it have leave to sit during sessions of the Assembly, and that said committee report fully, as speedily as possible, with such recommendation as it may deem proper.

Johnson, in speaking to his resolution said that it seemed to him that instead of a government of the people, by the people, and for the people, it was beoming a government of newsapers, Burns here to ask him what The shadow cast upon the Speaker fell over from Grant, for whom, the Call also upon each member, and upon 'our fair State." He would suggest as a motto for the committee the words half of the candidate for Senator, for whom he had been voting (Burns,) he was authorized to say that the fullest, freest and widest investigation that he House could give was courted. On behalf of that candidate he would ask that no member who had voted for him should be appointed on the committee. Dibble (railroad and Burns legis. ator) seconded the resolution, and it nobody voting against it. Speaker pro tem Anderson, after short recess, announced the following committee: Cosper (Bulls voter.) Chairman; Melick (Bulla,) La Baree (Patterson,) Wade (Estee,) Lardner (Barnes,) and Mead and San

There was a scramble on the part of every one then to get off the commit tee, for none relished work on investi gation, on account of necessarly protracted hearings, antagonisms which would be encountered, and prospects of the unsatisfactory outcome which usually follows legislative investiga tions.

Mead succeeded in being excused, an Burnett (Dem.) will probably be substituted. Melick, at the afternoon session, made two efforts to be released from serving, and Wade and Cosper tee work, but Speaker Anderson de clined to relieve them, saying the matter was now in the hands of the House Dibble, to clinch the situation, moved excused, and Clough seconded the mo tion, which was adopted, after Wade had served notice upon the House that he, for one, believed it the committee's duty to investigate only the Wright charges, and not go fishing around for

of the committee with the Times' representative, said he had received no suggestions as to whom he should appoint as members of it, but, on the con trary, he had used his own judgment is securing the best men outside of the anks of the two leading candidates He declared that the matter was now out of his hands, and that the committee had absolute mastery of the pro ceedings.

At 5 p.m. the committee met in room 73, Cosper, chairman, La Baree, Lardner, Melick, Wade and Sanford being present. It was decided that the chairman should select the stenographers and clerk. Cosper moved an executive session to discuss the scope and range to take under the resolu-tion. Melick did not believe in execusessions. He wanted everything tive not intended for publication, but could not be misconstrued if state ments were made openly.

Further discussion followed as to the scope of the resolution. Wade wanting to know if it was expected that the committee would call in everybody and ask them if they had been improperly influenced. He thought the question was whether Mr. Wright had done anything culpable, or had any one done anything culpable as to Mr.

Chairman Cosper thought the con mittee, like a grand jury, could only act on matters properly laid before it. Melick held that the committee not sitting as a court, waiting for somebody to come and make charges but it must delve around and dig the truth. The direct charges of the Call, reiterated in other papers, made it seem to him proper to bring Col. fluences he used to change says, Wright promised to vote. Cos per thought another investigation was as to the power of Green to act as agent for Grant. He also wanted some specific charge made, as the resolution was too indefinite.

Melick proposed to subpoena Grant Green. Wright, the Call reporters Leake. Leavings, Colven and Henry James, and Reporter Moran of Examiner, and such other witnesses as might be desired, and this motion was adopted. Melick desired to g ahead with the examination tonight but Cosper objected, as he had othe committee meetings to attend. WORK BEGINS TODAY

It was decided that Grant's check and Wright's letter to Green should be produced, and that meetings should be held daily, beginning at 2:30 o'clock to morrow afternoon, and with that un derstanding the meeting dissolved. It would seem from tonight's discussion that the committee cannot well make up its mind what to do until it has begun with the examination of Grant Green and Wright, and can use its findings as a basis for further investi-

He was willing to go to the stand, he said, and tell the truth about what he knew, and if the Burns side wanted to make a fight, the Grant people would give them as good as they sent. SPEAKER WRIGHT'S SUIT.

Some of the legislators, discussing tonight the suit for $250,000 for criminal libel brought against the Call by Speaker Wright, through his attorneys, Devlin & Devlin, and Judge Holt, said it might have a greater effect in bringing election methods to light than would a committee investigation. One strange feature of the present situation is that while some weak-kneed Grant men fear his candidacy may be injured by the publications of sensational stories in the newspapers and the need of any investigation whatsoever, still they do not see their way clear to leaving him, for they don't know where to cast their votes to advantage and beat Burns, and the desire to defeat the latter is one of the strongest bonds of union among the Grant men. Even these timid ones ridicule the idea of going to Bulla and of letting his nine votes dominate Grant's twenty-seven.

RECEIVING TELEGRAMS. Senator Simpson tonight denied that he had any intention as yet of changing from Bulla to Grant, though one of the Bulla workers told the Times correspondent that Simpson had beer suggesting a union of the two forces. Simpson is credited with having received fully 150 telegrams from Angeles people, some urging him to vote for Grant and others that he stay with Bulla. Senator Currier is also said to have received so many that he has tired of opening them.

Legislator, Held Up a Second Time

Deluded False Prophet.

That any man or combination of men should be able to recognize the wonderful potency that exists in the figure 9, when applied to votes (three of them held under restraint,) so fills the breasts of Bulla's henchmen with virtuous indignation that they are cut-ting their acquaintances among the following of Grant, not deeming them are too good to speak to these humble twenty-seven, there are others, who are working just as hard for Bulla (not to say for Burns,) who are not too proud to extend the right hand of fel lowship, with something besides mere fellowship in it, to these poor twenty-seven. I have told you in a previous dispatch how that disgraced and fugitive boss, Hervey Lindley, aided and abetted by "Paresis" Kilbourne, tried of friendship, to make a second choice vote for Bulla. Of. course, Hervey never had any relations with the Espee Oh, no. No more had Maj. Goucher Jimmy Copeland, George H. Stewart Ford Rule and many other honor gentlemen from Los Angeles, who here "legging" for Bulla.

They are entirely disassociated, in their own minds, from corporate influ-ence, and are wholly disinterested, in their own minds, in their advocacy of a man whom they know (though they will not admit it.) cannot be elected Therefore, it would be wrong to say that railroad money is at the present time being offered to swell the forty five or forty-six second-choice which Bulla modestly admits is his n.
All I know about it is that this same legislator whom Lindley held up was approached by another tireless worker Bulla (otherwise Burns) yester day, and was asked if he were absolutely tied up to Grant.

"Tied up? No," said the legislator. "Well, then," said the manipulator, you stand for Bulla for second choice and we will make it all right with you. We'll fix it for you.

The legislator in question has no doubt whatever that if he had named a price for his vote, it would have been assented to, but he declined to do business with the party and is now ing who will be the next to try to win

WOULD SAY NOTHING.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.-In answer to a direct question Secretary Alger, at the close of the official day, said that the War Department had taken no action in the case of Commissary-Gen. Eagan, but when the inquiry was pursued, he declined to say one word as to his intentions in the matter.

It was stated that Gen Miles would as to his intentions in the matter.

It was stated that Gen. Miles would not prefer charges against Gen. Eagar for the utterances delivered by him before the War Investigation Commission last Friday, but intends to let the War Department deal with the matter in its own way. Touching these charges, it is said that there is really no absolute necessity that anyone shall follow them, although the Judge-Advocate-General of the War. Department would be called upon to put them in shape if it should be decided to order a court-martial.

BEEF WAS ODOROUS. Gen. Charles Humphreys Before the Investigating Board.

WASHINGTON, January 16 .- Gen. Charles Humphreys, who was in charge of the water transportation at Tampa for Santiago, was chief quartermaster on Gen. Miles's staff, and was with Gen. Shafter prior to Gen. Miles's arrival, was the main witness before the War Investigating Committee today.

Prior to his appearance, Capt. R. J. C. Irvine, Eleventh Infantry, commis-sary of the Panama at the time that sary of the Panama at the time that transport was in charge of Surgeon Daly, who wrote a report on the beef condemning it in the most sensational language, testified that the vessel sailed from Ponce on September 1 or 2, and on the 7th there was a well-marked odo# as if something had been "closed up." He was not prepared to say the odor was like that emanating from a dead human body injected with chemical preservatives. as Surgeon Daly had reported. As soon as a complaint was made of the beef, he said it was examined and found to be very odorous. The beef was thrown overboard. The men were then put on the rest of the provisions, living without fresh beef. The witness said the lack of it was not felt by the men. All the beef carried was refrigerated beef, ice taken aboard had not been sufficient to preserve the beef, "even," as the commission asked, "if it had been received in good condition." It was in fairly good condition, however, the witness said. After the beef was thrown overboard, he had thought it transport was in charge of Surgeon fairly good condition, however, the witness said. After the beef was thrown overboard, he had thought it must have undergone some change before it was brought aboard, or while aboard, before it was put on the ice. The board of survey that examined the beef condemned it because it was spoiled, nothing to any other effect being adduced. Its report said that the beef was not received in good condition, and it exonerated Capt. Irvine from responsibility therefor. Despite this finding, the witness said he insisted that the beef was in condition for immediate use when received, and it was used for three or four days. He cited the absence of refrigerating facilities aboard, and admitted that the beef was not as good as could be gotcilities aboard, and admitted that the beef was not as good as could be gotten at a first-class restaurant, as it had not the fresh flavor.

Gen. Humphreys, the chief witness of the day, said the congestion at Tampa was due to the inability of the roads to handle the cars.

"Did you assign the troops in advance of their arrival at Tampa to the different vessels?" asked Gen. Wilson.

"No. sir."

"When these troops came to you, were they then assigned for the first time?"

"Yes, sir, because that was neces-

"All the wagons," said the witness, were landed at Santiago, but all were of set up. Litters," he said "should ave been landed before the battle of it Caney, because they were regimental and he believed they must have been."
Vitness was aboard the Seneca for wo days and said she looked all right b him.

"I know there were people aboard he Concho who ought not to have sen," he said in reply to queries as pesses to outsiders to come north on ness vessels. He thought duplicate isuance of passes for foreign attachés and others might overcrowd the vessels, and had protested that only one erson should furnih passes. After he vessel was turned over to the medial department he said he had nothing o do with these ships. Asked as to omplaints that had been made of imroper condition of the Seneca. Concho, reakwater and the City of Washington, witness insisted the responsibility ested with the medical department. When the Seneca, Iroquois or the City if Washington sailed for home with he sick, he said they had no ice, unless he Red Cross had had a little. he Red Cross had had a little. The irst ice schooner, he sald, reached lantiago July 30.

There was a long wrangle over the tesponsibility for the loading of the ransports for the sick.

"If the Concho," asked ex-Gov. Wood-urr, "was overcrowded, was it because the government had not provided ufficient transportation or through an irror of judgment of the medical department?"

"Why, the medical department, cer-tainly," replied the witness emphati-sally, "because there were two more thips each as good as the Concho, wallable."

Gen. Humphreys resumed his testinony at the afternoon session. Speaking of the Santiago campaign, he said it was easy enough now to look back in things which might have been done, but there were a thousand and one but there were a thousand and one hings which happened which could not have been anticipated. He was closely questioned by Dr. Connor as to the supply of medical stores and the transportation furnished to convey them. Witness said that the transportation, the pack trains used before the wagon trains were unloaded, were under the direction of the commanding general, with orders to get ammunition and stores to the front, preferably ammunition, but there was, in his opinion, no reason why the medical stores should not have reached the front. "The medical corps were." he maid, "denied nothing, when it was possible to give it to them."

Asked about the failure to unload some of the transports which arrived at Santiago after the surrender. Gen. Humphreys said that the vessels were not unloaded because there were plenty of supplies on shore for the army, and his orders from Secretary Alger were to allow nothing to interfere with the movement of troops north.

Asked about his experience with refrigerated beef, he said the first he saw was at Santiago. "The trouble was there was too much of it," said he, "but what I saw was pretty good. I think it was all good when landed at daylight each morning, but I know nothing about its condition when it reached the troops. I heard that some of it spoiled." Gen. Humphreys resumed his testi-

FINISHING ITS WORK. War Inquiry Board Will Report by January 25-Peace Treaty.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 .- [Exclusive WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The War Investigating Commission today subdivided its work, giving to each member some peculiar subject which he is to follow throughout the entire testimony, and has reached the decision that its report will be in the hands of the President by Wednesday, January 25. This will mean that the members of the commission will have some hard work to do and each will be obliged to have his ade up on the trend of his rebefore the end of this week, so that they may get together the entire report by the time mentioned. So far there has been absolutely no discussion of the scope or features of the report. Any alleged forecast of the report, therefore, is the purest fiction.

As to the future of the peace treaty, there has been a poll of the Senate the opposition, and this is said to develop the fact that the men who now ill vote against the treaty number thirty-one, and there are still two votes which are counted in the doubtful column. Still, with this showing, the leaders of the antis are not hopeful of preventing the passage of the treaty at the present session.

They say the pressure of the admin istration, which is always felt when there is some question of vital importance before Congress, is sufficient to pull the measure through. The fact is they have something like thirty votes against the treaty, when Hoar introduced his resolution which provides and declares the intention of the United States to give Philippines to the natives for a re-public, this showed many of the Republicans away to be with the President on the treaty, and at the san time indicate their opposition to any kind of expansion. There are several of this kind of Republicans, and they will fall into line behind Hoar's reso-lution, and then vote for the treaty, making the declaration of the policy serve as a sop to their conscien be no Hawalian legislation at this don, except the passage of extenof customs and contract labor These bills are ready for consideration in committees of the Sen-ate, the former having passed the House, and it will take only a few ments of the morning hour to them through at any time within the coming month. There is no opposition to these measures, and they will be de laws, if nothing else Hawaiian is taken care of at this time.

the text of the letter sent by Gen.

OFFICE OF COMMISSARY OF SUB-SISTENCE, Washington (D. C.,) Jan. 14, 1899.

"To the commission appointed by the resident to investigate the conduct of he war with Spain—Gentlemen: I have the honor to hand you herewith my testimony, which is now resub-nited and revised in accordance with the views expressed by you in your letter to me of January 13. The objectionable features and what is con-letter to me of January 13. The objectionable features and what is considered irrelevant matter by you, in which opinion I entirely agree, are eliminated. In this connection I desire to state that there was never a thought or intention on my part of any disrespect whatsoever to your commission, but in explanation of the language used by me heretofore, I beg to invite the attention of the commission to the fact that I have been accused practically of feeding thre soldiers poisoned beef, which made them sick, 'embalmed beef,' so-called; that I have furnished meat to the army under the pretense of an experiment, which charge in effect is corruption and worse, because it jeopardizes the lives of soldiers sent to the front in tropical climates, and who are dependent on such food as sent them; that these statements have gone to the whole country uncontradicted; that they have been published and I have been pilloried in the press of the country as a man who has fed the army on poisoned meat and corruptly so; that for about three weeks' time I have kept silent for the reason that I was debarred after talking with the Honorable Secretary of War, from preparing charges because of the immunity granted by the President to witnesses before your commission, not withstanding the gravity of the accunesses before your commission withstanding the gravity of the sations; that it is unreasonable lieve that such monstrous charges could have any other effect than to could have any other effect than to work upon an honorable man in such a way as to goad him to a species of desperation, and that it was but natural, when the proper opportunity was given him, to meet and refute the charges, that he should characterize them in harsh language and in terms that are deemed improper, no matter what the provocation. I therefore withdraw the language and matter so objectionable and resubmit to you now my sworn statement, with the abiding faith that your commission, having all the facts before you, will decide the points at issue justly.

"Very respectfully.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.—The Senate had no session for the transaction of business today. When that body convened at 12 o'clock, it proceeded at once to the hall of the House of Representatives to attend as a body the funeral of the late Representative Neison A. Dingley. At 1 o'clock, the Senate returned to its chamber. Jonathan Ross, appointed by Gov. BATTLE OPENS TODAY. Dendlock Probable in Pennsylvania Quay on the Ground.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HARRISBURG (Pa.,) Jan. 16.—The battle for United States Senator will open in earnest tomorrow with the takng of the first ballot in the Senate and separately at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and in joint session Wednesday. The fight is between Senator Quay, backed by the 109 Senators and members who took part in the Republican caucus; George A. Jenks of Brookville, the candidate of the Democratic caucus, and a half a dozen "favorite sons" nominated by the anti-Quay Republican legislators. With the Democrats and anti-Quayites voting for their candidates, the indications are that there will be a deadlock.

The features of today's skirmish were the resignation of David Martin as Secretary of the Commonwealth, and the conference of the anti-Quay Republican Senators and members. Mr. Martin was elected in November to the Senate from the Eighth Pennsylvania District, and expected to qualify tomorrow after the change in the State administration. Ify tomorrow after the change in the State administration. He changed his mind this evening, and sent his resignation to Gov. Hastings to take effect upon its acceptance. The resignation was promptly accepted, and Mr. Martin will qualify in the morning. The Senator-elect is one of the leaders of the anti-Quay movement.

There were present at the anti-Quay conference forty-seven of the fifty-two Senators and members pledged not to wote for Senator Quay while he is under indictment in the Philadelphia courts. The five absentees were accounted for to the satisfaction of their associates. Congressman John Dalzell of Pittsburgh, Congressman Stone of Warren and J. F. Downing of Erie, who have also been entered in the fight by the anti-Quay people, are on the ground looking over the situation.

Senator Quay reached here at midnight from Washington, and is staying at the residence of County Chairman Weiss. The Senator expects to remain here through the early stages of the fight. He shares the confidence of his managers. He shares the confidence of his

KANSAS CITY (Mo.,) Jan. 16.—Grant C. Gillett, the Kansas cattle plunger, will return to the United States and face his creditors in Kansas City on or before February 1, according to a statement made today by Charles F. Hunt, who came here from Chihuahua, Mex., several days ago, and who has had numerous conferences with Gillett's principal creditors. Hunt left for Mexico this evening. He stated that he had arrived at a thorough understanding with Gillett's creditors, that Mr. and Mrs. Gillett would come north at once, and that there would be no prosecution on account of the alleged questionable mortgage transactions. In fact, he declared that Gillett had never had any fear of the outcome of the matter should he be brought before the court, and that his object in seeking refuge in Mexico was to avoid the expense and annoyance which he would have been subjected to in the event of arrest.

Mr. Hunt stated also that Gillett had no large sum of money, as has been reported, and that he would make no big payment to his creditors principally in assisting them to straighten out his tangled affairs and to convert into cash his cattle and other property scattered over Southern Kansas and the Territories. Gillett, he says, desires to wind up the whole affair and begin life anew.

Washington from a visit of inspection of the United States military camps in Cuba. He summed up the results of his trip as follows:

"I find the sanitary condition of the troops now in and near Havana, Matanzas and Pinar del Rio to be very good at present. There is very little serious sickness, but medical officers generally apprehend that there will be a very considerable increase in the amount of sickness as the unhealthy season approaches, and strenuous efforts are being made to prepare for a large number of sick in case the military situation makes it necessary to retain a considerable body of troops in Cuba during the summer months.

"The sanitary reorganization of Havana is, however, a difficult problem, and one which will require time as well as money and energy. I consider it entirely impracticable to place this city in such a condition that it will be safe for nonacclimated persons to remain there during the coming summer without serious risk. Yellow fever is epidemic at Havana, Matanzas, Cardenas, Clenfuegos, Trinidad and various other seaport cities. It occasionally prevalis at Puerto Principe, Holguin, Pinar del Rio, Remedios and several other interior towns."

Authorities Have Commenced it in Havana-Mode of Procedure. [A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 .- A dispatch to the Tribune from Havana says the police authorities have begun the moral sanitation of that place. Vans have been provided, and last night after midnight they made the rounds after midnight they made the rounds of the city, picking up vagrants and homeless persons. Since the time of the reconcentration, the parks and porticos have been filled nightly with these unfortunates, a few of whom are criminals. It has been one of the distressing features of the prevailing conditions for which no remedy was found. Under the Cuban-American administration, the building known as the San Isidor Asylum has been obtained as a shelter. Persons picked up in the streets are taken there and provided with lodging and food. If they are able to labor they are turned over to the municipal public works and are put to work sweeping the streets. For this they are paid 90 cents a day.

larger class, are provided for at San Isidor, and in the hospitals. In a short time it is expected that the streets will be cleared entirely of these people. Provision is also made for the care of the urchins who are without homes, in San José Asylum. Formerly this asylum had a manual training school, and this will be revived. Some forms of vice which have been demoralising to children beggars, and which would come within the province of the Gerry Society of New York, have also been taken hold of by the police authorities with beneficial results.

José Miro, a former inspector of police, and later a captain of Spanish guerrillas, has written a letter to the insurgent colonel at Fredo Arango, in which he gives particulars of police practices. He says that under Spanish officials. documents were régularly forged to convicts, and for this purpose, a special stamp was made and special paper prepared for forging the documents. He gives the names of the Chief of Police and inspectors by whose connivance this was done. Among them are Cubans, as well as Spaniards. Miro says that, while the criminals were deported, a false nanigosism was established, which was used as a means of deporting. Cuban political prisoners. Miro's letter is in the nature of a confession. The degree of credence to be given it is uncertain. What he says of the deportation of Cuban political prisoners as nanigos is known to be true. Other allegations affect persons who are seeking employment on the present police force. As Gen. Menocal is the head of the police force, he is in a position to utilize whatever is true in Miro's statements, regarding individuals.

FUND TRANSFER ORDER. Santiago Nearly Wild.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA. Jan. [Correspondence of the Associated Press.] The immediate effect of the announcement of the order from Ha-[Correspondence of the Associated Press.] The immediate effect of the announcement of the order from Havana regarding, the transfer to that city of the funds accruing from the customs receipts each week was pronounced and emphatic.

The news spread throughout the city like, wildfire, within an hour, a committee was called by the Chamber of Commerce, at least three business firms cabled holding up consignments they had ordered, the local papers issued extras, and the laboring classes were even more staggered than the business men, for it meant their livelihood. To every one it seemed as if Santiago, might drift back into the conditions existing, in the old Spanish government days.

The explanation of the War Department that the transfer of the funds was merely "nominal" had but a very slight effect on the people, for that was always said by the Spanish. The money always drifted to Havana, and but a very small percentage went back to the province whence it came, and it is the general opinion among all classes that every other place in the island had suffered while Havana had been unduly favored, and to the Cuban mind the new law seemed precisely the same as the old.

The Cubans regard a province as, in many respects, the same as a state. Each province has a seaboard on both sides of it, with the exception of Matanzas, which, however, has two very profitable, ports—Matanzas and Cardenas. Santiago, the largest province, has the ports of Santiago, Manzanillo, Guantanamo and a few smal ports on the northern and Santa Cruz del Sur on the southern coast. Santa Clara possess the second port of the island, in Clentue-gos, Havana, the smallest province, possesses, the port, of that name and the port of Batabano, while Phinir del-Rio has Mariel and a number of small ports. It will thus be seen that every province in the island should be able to get sufficient funds from its customs receipts to make the improvements that have been so badly needed for centuries, relying upon local tax-ation for the purpose of running the cit for centuries, relying upon local tax-ation for the purpose of running the cities and towns.

Very few days have elapsed since the Americans took complete confrol of the island and in those few days it is claimed the work that has been done here toward making the people friendly and contented would have been undone had it not been for such men as Gen. Castillo and Mayor Ba-coardi, who counselled their country-men against committing any overt act against the laws, and to make only a perfectly peaceful agitation, saying that they had confidence that when Gen. Wood reached Washington jus-tice would be done and the province would be allowed to manage its own affairs.

No one could have witnessed the mass-meeting on the subject or the procession which escorted Gen. Wood from the palace to the dock without being impressed by the fact that the people were in earnest. The cheers all down Marian street from the crowds being impressed by the fact that the people were in earnest. The cheers all down Marian street from the crowds that lined every available part of the thoroughfare and filled the windows and over the house tops, would convince the most skeptical that these people were shouting from their hearts.

A cable was received two days later from Havana, however, countermanding the first order, and saying that the money could remain in the province. money could remain in the province, but that checks, etc., would have to be drawn by order from Havana. The second order was worded as folthis be generally known. Disbursements of the funds will be made in pursuance of the proper warrant specifying object, duly signed. By order of the division commander.

[Signed] "A. R. CHAFFEE, "Commanding General."

This did not succeed in allaying the widespread alarm felt by all classes. It did have the effect, however, of claiming the laboring classes, those engaged in road-making and other public improvements, as they were assured by the Mayor at the mass-meeting that they would not be thrown out of work. On the other hand, merchants—Cubans, Spaniards, English, German, French and American—were still in doubt as it again ordered consignments sent here, claiming that under the circumstances it would be better for them to have the goods shipped to Havana in bulk through their agents and reshipped on coasting vessels.

Song, "Jingle of Guineo Helps Smart That Honor Feels," Jimmy Copeland. Letters of regret were read from Col. Burns, Maj. McLaughlin, Lieut Billy Hamilton, Aide de Camp Guy Barham, Col. Jack Wright, Sergeant Toomy Smith, High Private Lester Os borne, and other officials of Mexican army who were engaged in pouring out libations of wine in honor of the vic tory achieved over Grant today through the aid of Field Marshal

Wright, and after a performance on the hurdy-gurdy by Hopeless Zany Osborne, the evening's entertainment came to a close, with mutual felicitations and a resolution requiring the railroad to pay the bills. KEEP ON RESOLVING.

Assemblyman Beisnaw of Contra Costo said tonight, after the meeting of the Los Angeles delegation, that the latter had resolved, as heretofore, to stand firmly by Bulla. During the discussion tonight, he said, he had told them that if Grant could show where he could get votes enough to win, pro vided he should get Bulla's votes also he (Belshaw) would advise the Los An geles members to go for Grant.
"But," Belshaw said to the Times representative, "Grant can't show those votes. His managers have made a proposition to the Bulla people that if the latter will join them, Grant can get forty-five votes, and so control the caucus, but I say he can't get forty-five votes, and when they were asked to name them they could not do it. I know fourteen members outside of the Burns and Bulla camps—Assem-blyman Anderson, Senator Luchsinger and others whom I won't name—who will never go to Grant under any cir-cumstances. Why, then, should Bulla's votes go to Grant if they can't elect him? Personally, I think Burns has made a cleaner fight than Grant, though, of course, his 'work' may be finer.

elect Grant; for one thing because Chronicle has attacked Burns so bitterly. Now, Burns likes Bulls, and might help Bulla if he had to do it to beat Grant. I think the best thing for the south, if it wants a Senator, would be to have Bulla's and Grant's people get together and agree on some third get together and agree on some third man. I am told that Thomas A. Bard is very well liked. I know two of your is very well liked. I know two of your Grant men who say shey made a mistake at the start in voting for Grant, and they would vote for Bard. As for telegrams urging the Los Angeles members to vote for Grant, they are getting others from people who, I am told, are prominent in Los Angeles county, telling them to stay with Bulla and they are going to stay.

GRANT COULD CONTROL. GRANT COULD CONTROL.

Nevertheless, in spite of Mr. Belshaw's assertions, the Times' correspondent has information which leads to the belief that Grant can secure the necessary votes to control the caucus, if assured of the cooperation of the Los Angeles delegation, and under the circumstances it would seem that the best course for all concerned would be for the two camps to get together and hold a general and free discussion of the subject. The Grant managers are perfectly willing to do this, if the Bulia men will assent, and

HUNT IT DOWN. It is probable that efforts looking to this end may be undertaken.

ODDEST OF SIGHTS.

One of the oddest sights of the campaign was the meeting of all the Senatorial candidates in the parlor of the Golden Eagle Hotel tonight. Barnes and Burns met there by accident, and pretty soon Knight and Bulla dropped in. It was suggested that all of the "main guys" be got together, so a messenger was dispatched to Grant's head-quarters to bring him over. Mr. Grant came, and the leaders in the Senatorial battle chatted together amicably until the reporters, who got wind of it, began to gather, when they scattered. A. G. Booth, one of Barnes's managers, has started for home, evidently believing that he can be of no more service here.

Four ballots were taken, but there was no change in the Republican vote over that of last Saturday, except, of course, the difference caused by those who were absent. These would have undoubtedly voted for the same candidates that received their votes last Saturday. Assemblyman Richard, a Burns man, passed through the voting, Raw being absent.

Abbot Kinney received the complimentary vote of the Democrats on the first ballot, after which it went to Stephen M. White for the three remaining ballots. The vote by ballots today was as follows:

NEW HAVEN (Ct..) Jan. 16.—The fight at the Hyperion Theater between Spike Sullivan of Boston and Eddie Connoily of St. Johns, N. B., twenty rounds, for a purse of $800; onded in a draw. The fight was a spirited one, marred, however, by repeated and persistent clinching by both men. Connoily had to be warned twice for apparent fouling. At the conclusion of the bout he protested angrily at the decision, claiming the fight.

Up to the twelfth or thirteenth rounds Connoily had a little the better of the argument, but Sullivan came up stronger again for a few rounds. His stamina and gameness were remarkable. Connoily seemed to be the stionger puncher and more telling hitter. It was either man's fight in the last few rounds, and a knockout was confidently expected by the spectators. Peter Maher was in Sullivan's corner. Before the fight he challenged heavyweights the world over to a fluish fight, Sharkey preferred, but no comers barred.

Tortured by Rheumatism

If the people generally knew the true cause of Rheumatism be no such thing as mud baths and sulphur baths for this painful disease. The fact is Rheumatism is a disordered state of the blood: it can be reached therefore only through the blood, But all blood remedies cannot cure Rheumatism for it is an obstinate disease. San Curo is the first remedy found that actually drains the uric acid out of the blood. Those of you who have had experience with Rheumatism know that it becomes more severe each year and like most other blood diseases the doctors are unable to cure it. Some of the nost learned doctors prescribe mercury and other things which only intensify the disease by producing a stiffness in the joints. San Curo cures permanently Rheumatism, Gravel, Gout and Bright's Disease. Any one suffering from any of these diseases will be furnished one week's medicine free. I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. CALM FEATURES OF THE DEAD VIEWED BY THOUSANDS.

Leaders of the Nation Shed Tears at the Bier of the Revered States-man-Impressive Words of Rev. Mr. Newman.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16.-A state funeral, almost majestic in its impresruneral, almost majestic in its impressiveness, was given the late Representative Nelson A. Dingley at noon today in the House of Representatives, where he had so long been such a commanding figure.

The President, his Cabinet, distinguished members of the distance.

The President, his Cabinet, distinguished members of the diplomatic corps, members of the Supreme Court. Senate and House and distinguished men in military and civil life were ranged about his bler on the floor of the hall, while the galleries, to which admission could be obtained only by a card, were occupied by the families of who sat upon the floor, and prominent persons invited to be pres-ent. Some of them, like a delegation from the New York Chamber of Comerce, had come from a distance to pay their last tributes of respect to the dead statesman. Not since the late William D. Kelly of Pennsylvania was given a state funeral in the House during the fifty-first Congress, while Mr. McKinley was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, has such an nor been accorded a member of the remains were taken from th Hotel Hamilton to the Capitol this morning at 10 o'clock, and were borne into the Hall of Representatives by a of Capitol police under the direc-f Sergt. Russell. The casket was into the Hall of Representatives by a squad of Capitol police under the direction of Sergt. Russell. The casket was placed on a bier in the area in front of the marble rostrum of the Speaker, and for an hour the public, which would have no opportunity to witness the official ceremonies later, was allowed to view the remains as they lay in state. Thousands of people streamed through the main door down past the casket and gazed upon the calm, serene features of the dead during that hour. Some could with difficulty be induced by the police to move away from the casket. The House pages and other employes of the House entered the line and took a last view of the revered statesman. Mr. Dingley was well loved by the employes of the House, and there were tears in many eyes.

The decorations of the hall were simple but strikingly beautiful. Palms relieved the rigid corners, and palm leaves arranged in the form of a trefoil planted in wreaths of calla leaves, tied with long streamers of purple, adorned the walls. A cluster of roses and palm leaves were arranged on each section of the brass railing about the rear of the hall. This simple scheme of decoration culminated about the rostrum, beneath which the remains lay.

Owing to the entreaties of friends and the imperative directions of the doctors, the afflicted widow remained at her room during the official ceremony, as she was not over the prostrating effect of the loss of her husband.

A deep hush fell upon the assemblage. Suddenly out of the loft in the rear of the press gallery the notes of an organ pulsed and echoed through the hall. It was the first time in the history of the House of Representatives that music had been heard in it. A quartette sang impressively, "Crossing the Bar," the beautiful words by Tennyson, beginning—tives that music had been heard in it. A quartette sang impressively, "Crossing the Bar," the beautiful words by Tennyson, beginning—"Sunset and evening star,

And one clear call for me."
The services were conducted by the Rev. S. M. Newman of the First Congregational Church of this city, assisted by Rev. Dr. Couden, chaplain of the House.

It was a very simple service. Rev. Newman read the fourteenth chapter of St. John. He then spoke of the deep solemnity of the occasion and the great, lesson which might be drawn from the life which had been finished. All assembled here to pay their tribute to one who stood in life is an example to mankind. Every honorable aspiration and every particle of manliness was touched by the finger of sorrow. He reviewed briefly the great career of the dead statesmen, who, he said, had at last become the pure and highest type of an American citizen, in whom his countarymen reposed honor and confidence. He concluded with a feeling of tribute to the "devoted husband and father, the loving brother and friend, the loyal and true-hearted citizen and legislator, and the fearless and faithful statesman and leader of his party."

Rev. Couden, the blind chaplain of the House, made a touching speech, and the exercises were closed with the singing by the quartette to the organ accompaniment of "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

When Rev. Newman delivered the benediction the entire assemblage arose, the galleries as well as those on the floor. The distinguished company departed in the order in which they had come, all passing down the aisle by the casket. President McKinley paused for a fraction of a minute while he gazed sadly at the features of his dead friend. When all had departed, save the members of the House, Mr. Boutelle of Maine moved that the parted, save the members of the-House, Mr. Boutelle of Maine moved that the House adjourn as a further mark of respect. The motion was adopted at once, and at 12:55 the Speaker declared the House adjourned.

MINERS AND OPERATORS. Battle Royal Between Them Looked for This Week.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
PITTSBURGH (Pa.,) Jan. 16.—This week will witness a battle royal be-ween the coal operators and the United Mine Workers over the interstate agreement. The joint convention is scheduled for tomorrow after-noon, but if the miners do not get through with their business the me

ing will be postponed until Wednes It is generally understood that the operators will energetically oppose an advance in the price of mining, and will fight to the end to get any agreement looking toward an increase in the pres-ent wages. The business, they admit, has been better during the last ninety days than for a long time, but the are hampered by a lack of cars for are hampered by a lack of cars for transportation.

Some of the miners' delegates say they will insist upon an advance in wages and an eight-hour day. They claim that nearly all the mines of the country are being worked to their full capacity, and that there is a scarcity of miners in many districts. Michigan Iron ore operators are sending agents through the coal mining districts of Illinois, engaging coal diggers to go to the iron mines. Altogether the situation, they say, warrants asking for more money. Some of the delegates even went so far as to hint that if their demands were not complied with a strike of greater magnitude than the country has seen for years would be inaugurated next summer.

Three Hundred Stray Soldiers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 16.—The transport Ohio arrived today with 300 men from Manila, most of them stray soldiers who are either going home on furlough or convalescents. The First Nebraska Regiment is the most largely represented among the sick men, although there is a number from the Thirteenth Minnesota Regiment. The convalescents were taken to the division hospital. Those who are too ill to go home immediately will be retained here, the others will go on to their respective homes as soon as they can be provided with suitable clothing. The Astor Battery left for New York on the overland train tonight. Three Hundred Stray Soldiers.

tracking of the O'Keefe case only serve to show that no efforts were made by the authorities of this county either to apprehend O'Keefe or to collect from his bondsmen. The records show that Deputy District-Attorney Willis the court on September 3 1897, that a suit against O'Keefe's bondsmen was pending in San Diego county. They also show that the change of venue in the suit against the bondsmen was not granted until September 27, and that the papers were sent to San Diego on September 28. Mr. Willis, when questioned about the case, said he knew nothing about it, and had the case of the case. nothing to do with it until a few weeks before election in 1898, more than a year after his appearance in the case was noted in the aninutes of the court. He could not account for the entry in the records, which shows that he represented a case to be "pending" in San Diego twenty-five days before the papers were sent there.

In December, 1898, diligent search was made in the County Clerk's office of Sah Diego for same record of this suit. The clerk and his deputies were unable to find any, and report was made to The Times that the index of plaintiffs and defendants had been searched, the clerks questioned, and in the court records examined, and no record or recollection of any case against Davis and Myers could be found.

Inquiry at the District Attorney's office of Los Angeles county elicited only the information that the papers had been mailed to San Diego, and that nobody knew whether or not they ever arrived. Nobody knew of the filing of the suit, but a deputy ventured the explanation that no filing fee had been paid, and that probably the papers were in some forgotten pigeon-hole. It was said also, by way of explanation of the failure of the District Attorney to follow up the matter, that the bondsmen were no good, and that it would be useless to send a deputy to San Diego to prosecute the suit.

Last week, however, one of the bonds-Last week, however, one of the bondsmen, having seen published accounts of the matter, came up from San Diego and called at the District Attorney's office to make inquiries. He knew nothing of the "pending" suit, had not skipped, and did not know why he was considered "no good."

Then Assistant Dist.-Atty. Jones began a search for the lost case, and yesterday he received the following letter:

"My Dear General: Replying to your esteemed inquiry of the 10th inst., relative to case of the People vs. O'Keefe, I beg to state that after some search I have failed to find the record of any case of the People vs. O'Keefe, transferred from Los Angeles county to this court. There are, however, papers here in a case of the People, etc., vs. W. J. Davis and A. L. Myers, suit on bond given for the appearance of one O'Keefe before the Superior Court of Los Angeles county. The papers were placed upon register here in 1897, and consist of complaint, demurrer and order of transfer from Los Angeles county. No original bond accompanying the papers, but copy of bond is set out in complaint. It is possible this is the case you have in mind, I have the honor to remain, with regard.

"Yours sincerely,"

"C. A. HOLCOMB,"

While the Asst.-Dist. Attorney may have made the mistake of inquiring about "the People vs. O'Keefe," The Times, in December, inquired about a suit against W. J. Davis and A. L. Myers, and received the reply that no such case was on record in San Diego.

13 now appears that the original bond was not sent to San Diego, although the Los Angeles officials declared that it had been. The County Clerk of Los Angeles holds the District Attorney's receipt for the bond is.

"Held in abeyance" is probably the correct term as applied to the Los Angeles end of the affair. "Forgotten" may fit the San Diego end, but it is remarkable that the clerks down there could find no trace of the case three weeks ago, and now are able to dig it up and tell all about it.

But nobody has given yet a respectable explanation of how such a case was lost for fifteen months. O'Keefe was a tin-horn gambler, a member of a gang that had a "pull" in the Police Court, and the District Attorney's office in this city. He went gunning for another gambler in the Elit's Saloon, on Spring street, in February, 1897, and shot two other men with whom he had no quarrel. He gave bonds and then ran away, and the case has been buried diligently ever since, evidently with the expectation that it would be forgotten. It was reported a few weeks ago that it was reported a few weeks ago that it was the intention of the District Attorney's office to dismiss the case against O'Keefe just before the end of the year, but inquiry directed public attention to the matter, and no motion to dismiss was made. It is significant that Deputy Willis says he was instructed "just before election" to take charge of a case that had been buried so completely thit not; even the bond could be found, and that even, after he "took charge" he could not tell where any of the papers were, or fifthe suit ever had been filed in San Diego. He performed his duty of "taking charge" so zealously that he didn't even remember that he had, reported the suit against the bondsmen as "pending" more than a year previously.

The essential features of this remarkable tangle are that the murderous gambler, O'Keefe, is still at large, and that the District Attorney's office neglected for more than a year to make any effort to collect his forfeited bond.

Nearly twenty little Italian youngsters, accompanied by their mothers, visited the office of Prof. Foshay yesterday. None of the mothers could speak English. The little ones aff recognized the School Superintendent, and after greeting him, announced that they had come to be vaccinated, and commenced baring their arms that the superintendent might operate on them. It was with no little difficulty that the superintendent made the mothers understand that he could not act as a physician, and the children were greatly disappointed that, the superintendent could not vaccinate them.

One little fellow protested loudly when assured by his teacher that he could not avoid being vaccinated. He argued at some length with the teacher, and then asked if Mr. Foshay had to be subjected to a similar operation. The teacher was not quite sure as to the exact letter of the law, but ventured a reply in the affirmative. This seemed to be satisfactory to the youngster, and he promised to have his father take him to a doctor. Budd to collect from the Federal government moneys due the State on account of equip-ment and supplies furnished California ment and supplies furnished California troops mustered into the volunteer army during the recent war with Spain, will file their report with the Board of Examiners tomorrow. The report is calculated to produce a nervous shock among those watchdogs of the Treasury, who are endeavoring to establish a record for economy during the present session.

Tonight, when the facts contained in the report were circulated in advance of filing, there were some legislators who said that an investigating commit-tee might have something to say on the subject of the commissioners' expendi-tures. Barrett and Burgin devoted six pleasant weeks to the labor of straight-ening out the account of the State with the Federal government. "This is reasonable and conservative of our incidental expenses," said Col. Burgin, when seen tonight. "We had to entertain certain people in order to get our account straightened out, and paid without long delay. [ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

DENVER, Jan. 16.—Col. William J. Bryan declared today in a brief speech that he made at the public recep-tion given to him by the Bimetallic League of this city, that the silver issue is still very much alive. He said:
"The cause lives because it embodies the hopes, the aspirations and the belief of our people. It is a strong the belief of our people. It is a strong cause because the people need silver. The American people favor bimetallism, never mind where the silver is produced. We do not need it because it is produced here. People eat because they need it, not because food has to be consumed. And so with gold and silver. They are important in the world's commerce because they

"Those who advocate the gold stand-ard, as a rule, know that the gold dol-lar is not stable nor honest. INTERNATIONAL COMBINE.

egotiations in Progress for Consolidating Copper Mining Interests. [A. P. EARLY MORNING REPORT.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.-The Herald says negotiations looking to the con-solidation of the copper-mining inter-ests of the United States have been in progress in this port for a week. With a reputed backing no less powerful than that of the Standard Oil interests, the American Copper Mining Company, in its combination of six plants, expects to revolutionize the copper-mir ing industry of the world, in which the United States already figures as the chief factor. The Boston and Montana, and the Butte and Boston mining companies, the Old Dominion Copper Com-pany of Arizona, and the Arcadian, Tamarack and Osceola mining companies of Michigan, are named as the nies of Michigan, are named as the component parts of the new organization. It is understood that the American company will reach into Canada and absorb important copper mines there, thus making the combination international, but the Calumet and Hecla Company, the largest producer in the Lake Superior region, has so far declined to enter the combination. Disinterested observers of the trans-Disinterested observers of the transactions in copper-mining stocks for 1898 declare that a small coterie of men have added $50,000,000 to their wealth through this channel. The combination through this channel. The combination springs from the recent upheaval in copper. Prices have soared to the highest figures known, in face of unprecedented consumption. The employment of electrical energy has caused an enormous demand for copper. The European countries alone last year used 456,789,759 pounds, and when it is considered that American mines supply most of the foreign requirements in addition to home demands, the possibilities in the copper situation become apparent.

Hints of a consolidation received publicity first through the protective committee of the Boston and Montana Company. Stockholders were asked to deposit their shares with a Boston trust company in order that they might be "available fo protection against attacks on the company's property." The matter was in charge of A. S. Bigelow, head of the Bigelow-Clark mining syndicate of Montana; Sidney Chase, head of a brokerage firm, recognized as being representatives of the Standard Oil: Samuel Utermeyer, an attorney for the Standard, and Edward C. Perkins. This request for the hypothecation of the stock has all along been regarded as a concentration preparatory to effecting the combination. The Montana mines are the second most important in the State, which heads the list of copper-producing States, being exceeded in importance only by the Anaconda mine, owned by Marcus Daly and J. B. Haggin. The Arcadian, Tamarack and Osceola properties are in the Hancock-Houghton copper belt, in the Northern Michigan peninsula. The Arcadian mine has not been worked to any great extent, although its shares advanced at mention of the consolidation scheme from 25 to 75 points.

The Portage Lake district, where the Michigan mines involved are located, is in the throes of a copper craze that approximates the Kaffir mania in South Afriga, Brokers from Bokton, which is the American copper exchange, are doing a rushing business at branch offices opened on the ground, and people are buying mining shares as fast as stock certificates can be issued. CONVENTION HALL.

PROJECT PRESENTED TO THE M. AND M. ASSOCIATION.

Postmaster Mathews Advises the Building of a Large Pavillon for SIXTH-STREET PARK THE SITE.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS ELECTED BY THE ASSOCIATION.

Annual Reports of Outgoing Officers are Read—Financial Aid for a Sick Warrior—Compliment to Councilman Baker.

The meeting of the National Association of School Teachers' in Los Angeles next summer may be the immediate means of giving to this city a monster pavilion or coliseum, in which large conventions and entertainments can be held.

The erection of such a structure was suggested as a possibility of the coming year at the annual meeting of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association last evening. The suggestion was made by Gen. Mathews, who was called upon to make remarks which might be of value to the incoming board of directors of the association. Mr. Mathews intimated that it should be the policy of the association during the coming year to branch out along broader lines than have been taken up in the past. He referred to the coming Free Harbor Jubilee as an oppor tunfty to advertise Los Angeles and Southern California to the entire country. After advocating an active interest by the association in this cele bration, the postmaster went on to speak of the possibilities which were in store for the city, if the business men would only take matters in their hands and push them to a climax.

As a suggestion of a plausible man-ner of bringing to a successful end his scheme for a pavilion, Mr. Mathews suggested that a joint committee rep-resenting the Los Angeles Board of Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association get in touch with the committee which has in charge the entertainment of the teachers, and make arrangements for the erection of a monster building, which would be permanent. The general's idea of a proper edifice, he said, was one that would accommodate both the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association permanently, and give them a place to make their exhibits. In closing he said:

"Put this building up now, and let the teachers have it for their meetings next summer, and have it constructed for a permanent hall for other conventions which may come to Los Angeles in the future. If you will take up this work now and push it to a successful climax, it will be the accomplishment of more than a good year's work, not only for your organization, but also for the Board of Trade and the Chamber of Commerce." Trade, the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' As-

Trade and the Chamber of Commerce."

As a supplement to the suggestion of Mr. Mathews. Councilman Baker spoke of the city's need of a public library building, and suggested that the Sixth-street park be secured as a site for the proposed coliseum. On it he said there might be erected a three-story building large enough to accommodate the business men's organizations, furnish a large hall, and still leave ample accommodations for a library on the upper floor.

In addition to the reports of the outgoing officers of the board of directors, which were presented at the meeting last evening, the result of the afternoon's election for a new directory was announced. The names of the candidates and the votes they received are

The first fifteen of the foregoing were declared elected, they having received the highest number of votes. Of these only Frank Simpson and J. M. Schneider are members of the old board. The new board will meet in the rooms of the association to elect officers, at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The retiring president of the board of directors. Councilman F. L. Baker, was presented with a set of resolutions by R. W. Burnham, on behalf of the outgoing board. The resolutions referred to 'the work of the president in directing the affairs of the association, and extended to him a cordial vote of thanks. They were engrossed on heavy white paper, and surrounded by a frame of oxidized silver.

A collection of $15.35 was taken up at the meeting last evening to aid Frank Flynn, a soldier in the war with Spain, in getting from this city to his home in Newport, Ark. At that time he received fatal injuries, having sustained a fracture of the breast bone, which affected his lungs. He is now at the home of Mrs. Griffith, president of the Red Cross Society, where he is said to be slowly dying. Flynn came here from San Francisco a short time ago, and, as he was penniless, and anxious to get home, the Red Cross Society appealed to the Mcrchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

The reports of the outgoing officers told of the work which had been done by the organization during the year just passed, and suggested many things which might be of advantage to undertake during the coming year. The report of the Secretary shows that the membership is 340, and should be 500. He suggests that it would be advisable to publish a pamphlet for free distribution throughout the United States devoted to our industrial enterprises and the possibilities of their enlargement. In order to make the exhibit more attractive to the general public weekly concerts and entertainments were provided at different times, and the crowds that attended fully justified the action of the board of directors in establishing the exposition. The interest taken by the public in this enterprise was more marked, however, than that of the manufacturers, after a life of six short months the board of directors felt reluctantly compelled to close the exhibition. As a result the offices of this association were removed to the present quarters in the Laughlin building.

"The most practical, systematic and thorough campaign in favor of home products was abandoned, after the entire city had been thoroughly canvassed by women who visited every home in this city and explained to the consumers the advantages and necessity for patronizing home products when the modultedly produced practical results, and has induced many consumers to purchase home products instead of foreign or imported articles."

All this time a physician has been in attendance, but he, so Health Officer Powers alleges, did not report the case to the health office until yesterday. The same doctor, it is alleged, has been in charge of the case on Twenty-ninth street, and did not report that until it was four days old. The Board of Health has this alleged negligence on the part of the attending physician under consideration, but no course of action in regard to it has yet been decided upon.

As soon as Dr. Powers learned of the case on San Pedro street, he ordered a yellow flag exhibited and placed both the sresidence and the grocery store under strict quarantine. The grocery has been closed for several days, and every precaution has been taken to prevent the disease from being further disseminated by means of goods from the store.

gathering has never been held here, the very nature of the Loyal Legion, to which only officers who served during the civil war, or their sons, are eligible for membership, ensuring an exclusiveness practically unknown to dany other order. The Manila assem-blage, however, was particularly so, for the reason that it included some for the reason that it included some of the most prominent members of the order from every part

The affair was unique in the annals of Manila society in other respects, chief among which is the fact that it was conducted on as nearly an Ameri can plan as the foreign environments would allow. In the first place the usually uninviting interior of the Engwould allow. In the first place the usually uninviting interior of the English Hotel, from its arched portals to the stairway leading up to the banquet hall, was transformed into a bower of beauty, the decorations, which were superintended by Mrs. Roblison, the talented daughter of the proprietor, being exceptionally artistic, both in their conception and execution. Bare walls were entirely velled by tastefully-arranged palms and evergreens, while wreaths of the latter festooned above completely hid the white-washed ceiling. In the courtyard ropes of evergreen, from which tiny lamps were suspended, were strung from trees and balconies so as to form a beautiful canopy, while flowers of every description lent their fragrance to the ambient air. At the foot of the main stairway an immense United States flag was draped from the ceiling, like a splendid curtain, and under its shadow a particularly smart guard of honor from the Second Oregon Volunteers was drawn up to salute the guests as they passed up to the reception-room. It was characteristic of Admiral Dewey that as he passed along the line of soldiers he not only noticed their appearance, but took the pains to compliment the officer in charge upon it.

The large dining hall of the hotel was profusely and charmingly decorated with evergreens and plants, while the tables, which were ablaze with flowers, were screened from the observation of outsiders by curtains composed of the Stars and Stripes, strung between a row of pillars on the north side.

The cuisine, which was superintended by Sergeant H. T. Haves, of the Oreal The Loyal Legion.

[Manila Times (editorial,) Dec. 7, 1898;] There is quite a dramatic touch in the idea of a Loyal Legion banquet on a foreign battlefield, where the Northern and Southern States have fought side by side as brothers once again firmly united against a common enemy. If Manila seems to some people a very moderate kind of battlefield, even if they think it was a poor battle in a very poor field, this anniversary is none the less significant and symbolical. Our own opinion is that the greatness of a battle is not to be gauged by the number of pounds of dead meat wasted any cnore than it should be judged by the amount of ink splashed over good white paper by sensationalist scaremongers. Some of the most ghastly butcheries ever perpetrated in the will-o-the-wisp chase after honor and glory, have been nothing but huge blunders, huge exhibitions of criminal

The cuisine, which was superintended by Sergeant H. T. Hayes, of the Ore-gonians assisted by chefs Oroit and Heim of the Colorado Volunteers, could not have been surpassed anywhere and the presence of deft colored waiters, drawn from various Ameri-can regiments, added very materially to its enjoyment. Covers were laid can regiments, added very materially to its enjoyment. Covers were laid for sixty-four, but there were two vacancies, Capt. Glass of the Charleston, and Brig.-Gen. are meant, not to exult over the defeat, but to signalize the solidification of a people once disunited. South and North have united long ago, but the war with Spain has sealed the bond more firmly than ever, and obliterated the last traces of the old wound. It is one nation which now goes forth, not to conquer and subdue the world; but to issue a quiet, significant warning to the foes of liberty and progress. As one of the speakers said at the Loyal Legion banquet, the influence of the 'United States cannot now help making itself felt all over the world. Progress and expansion proceed from an irresistible law of nature; it is not the mere wish of President or Congress, it is the stern inevitable. The time was when the people of Boston, in their wisdom, said. "No roads will ever need to be extended turber than ten miles from Besten."

During the course of the banquet, which was presided over by Maj.-Gen.
T. M. Anderson, U.S.V., patriotic toasts and music were introduced.
Gen. Anderson, in proposing the first toast of, the evening, "Our Country." made a brief and feligitous speech, expressive of the justifiable pride felt by all who were born in the United States or had chosen it as their adopted home. It was particularly gratifying at the present juncture, to feel that they were playing a part in the glorius work of bringing to a benighted and backward country the civilization, enlightenment and freedom of the greatest country in the world. [Applause.]

The assembled guests then joined enthusiastically in singing "America."

The next toast, "The President of the United States," was proposed by Gen. Anderson, who paid en eloquent tribute to the sterling worth and magnificent ability of President and McKinley, and then introduced in complimentary language, Brig.-Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, commanding First Brigade, Second Division, Eighth Army Corps, who responded to the sentiment, "The President of the United States."

"Companions, Soldiers, Gentlemen: It is and ever has been the great glory of the army and havy of the States that they have stood fast as the strong arms and the sure defense of the republic in times of danger. Whenever liberty has been assailed in the home of her birth, these allied powers have willingly, yea! eagerly, at the signal of the Commander-in-Chief, the President of the United States, arrayed themselves in a solid cordon in her forefront, ready to shield with their whole united force her pure and precious breast, and defend with their whole united force her pure a ernecine foe. It is the high mission of our soldiers and sallors, springing from the loins of the people, to defend the laws and the liberties of the people. The army and the navy are direct creations of our republican system of government; not an enutgrowth of despotism, never a menace to public liberty or private rights, but ever strongly intrenched in the hearts of their grateful countrygress, obeying the commands of the President, who is the direct and chosen exponent of 'the will of the people,' which, in the happy language of a great

President, who is the direct and chosen exponent of 'the will of the people.' which, in the happy language of a great soldier, whose glorious memory we all revere, is the law of the land.

"That citizen who occupies the most enviable position as a ruler among the nations of the earth-is the President of the United States, because he is chosen by and from the people in a land which, thank God, has demonstrated the capacity of man for self-government, that magnificent human achievement which for so many weary centuries was the aspiration and the dream of liberty-lovers throughout ages of despotism. JApplause.] And thus this blessed land of ours has made itself, let us hope, the chief refuge of liberty forevermore.

"When the army and navy obey the bebest of the President, himself pursuing the sure pathway blazed out by the law-makers of the ration, they are doing the will of 70,000,000 of freemen: they are drawing the sword of a great and a puissant power.

"It is a beneficent feature of our republican system that the people, having met together under the forms of law to choose their President, must first stand pledged, as good citizens, to abide by the result of the popular election, no matter who may be chosen. Once chosen, the President is the President of the whole people; and it is to the everlasting honor of the army and navy that they stand abreast with the foremost patriots of the land in loyally recognizing that powerful safeguard of liberty, law and public order.

"And thus it happily comes about that the President of the United States, no matter by what political party he may have been elected, has at last come to be looked upon throughout the whole land, from the pines of the rugged New England coast to the palmettos of the southern Atlantic shore and the palms of the Pacific, as the lawfully-chosen head of the nation for the time being, to be respected and honored accordingly; and it is to the high credit of the officers and soldiers, both regular and volunteer, who have served, or who are now servin credit of the officers and soldiers, both regular and volunteer, who have served, or who are now serving, under the banners and beneath the eagles of the republic, that they have held themselves ever ready to draw sword in the nobie task of upholding this great basic principle of our republican system.

"So that, when we do honor to the office of the President we pay that sincere and respectful deference which is due to vox populi; we make our obeissance to the all-compelling popular vedict.

"Companions, it is a grateful task, here and in this presence, to speak personally of the incumbent of the highest office in the land, or in the wide world. It is not strange that the illustrious citizen who today stands as the civic and military head of the nation and enjoys so deep a hold upon the popular heart; for William McKinley is a man and a patriot—a soldier and a statesman. His career is a graphic illustration of the possibilities of citizenship under the republic. He sprang from that class which we are proud to call 'the average good citizenship' of our country. He began at the foot of the ladder, and slowly, steadily, made his way up to and upon its highest rung, through his own efforts, aided by a sterling father and a pious mother.

"When, as a boy, he was pursuing his education and thirstify seeking for knowledge, a great war broke, with startling crash, upon our then unhappy Union. Putting aside all else, the boy offered himself as a soldier and marched away with his comrades of the Buckeye State to the imminent field of hostilities. For more than four years he did his whole duty under arms, with supreme devotion and conspicuous gallantry, fighting on many a field where the rough edge of battle grated harshly agalist the opposing lines of the nation's adversaries. At Antietam, with marvelous self-possession and exceptional thoughtfulness for a boy of 18, he achieved a unique feat. In the midst of that mighty conflict, as it raged on the left of the line, late in the afternoon of that uncertain day, while hi myself am a personal witness to the

"A man of tried patriotism, of exalted principles, or pure life, of large heart and brain, and of conspicuous devotion to the public welfare, he is justly entitled to a position with the foremost in the long list of great Presidents who have gone before. He possesses a pattence that is inexhaustible; a faith that is sublime; a conception sesses a patience that is inexhaustible; a faith that is sublime; a conception of the needs of his country that is as broad as the confines of the republic. He carries the heavy burdens of his office with an endurance that is marvelous. When a foreign war that he deplored, and would gladly have averted—the second great conflict of arms in his country and time—came inevitably upon the land, he hesitated no longer, for the honor of his country and the rights of humanity were at stake, and the nation's sword had to be drawn to vindicate them.

"He has displayed supreme wisdom, skill and statecraft. He has restrained the too impetuous, spurred forward the laggard, encouraged the weak, and disarmed the hostile by the high patriotism and supreme unselfishness of his world in the control of the control of the same of the too impetuous, spurred forward the laggard, encouraged the weak, and disarmed the hostile by the high patriotism and supreme unselfishness of his public course. He has never yielded to the clamor of the hour, nor followed the dictates of a mere temporary expediency. He has not permitted himself to be swayed by elusive popular applause, nor has he departed from the strict line of duty, as he saw it, under the pressure of partisan threats. "The President, being himself a soldier, is able to understand and appreciate the army and the navy of his country. He knows not only how to estimate the value of the great services of the chosen commanders of her fleets and her armies, but to sympathize with 'the man-behind the gun,' the "jackie' on shipboard, as well as the soldier in the trench, in camp and in bivouac; for he has been there himself. [Applause.]

"President McKinley has, in brief, shown himself to be worthy of his high trust and a fit incumbent of the first office of the republic. Long life to him! Happy is the land that has such a government and such a ruler.! [Applause.]

"Companions, come what may, we will never despair of the republic. Let us swear again to hold up the hands of the President; let us dedicate ourselves anew, both as soldiers and citizens, to the indispensable work of defending the Union, enforcing the laws and maintalning the integrity of these United States of America, and with these great ends achieved, we may well hope that the very stars in their courses will fight for the great republic, and immortal Destiny claim her for its very own!" [Applause.]

The "Star Spangled Banner" was sung by the company as an accompaniment to the toast.

Gen. Arderson then proposed, amid loud applause, "Admiral Dewey and His Fleet." He said: "When we read Capt. Mahan's book on "Sea Power" not long ago, we little thought our own compatriots would so soon give us a practical illustration of his teachings. It is the awakening of a new era for our country. The guns of Fort Sumter, at the commencement of the war which gave birth to this, our Loyal Legion, awakened the nation from a state of apathy to a state of activity, and the guns of Manila Bay were the sunrise signal of another new day in our nation's history. They sounded the death-knell of the old monarchical theory that the kings of the nations possess the earth and all the goodness thereof. Let us, therefore, drink to the brain that conceived and the hearts of oak, and the brave hands that fought and won the victory on the ist of May [Applause,] Here's to Admira? Dewey and "the brain that conceived:"

The Battle Hymn of the Republic" as the company.

Gen. Anderson, in proposing the birth of the Philippine nation as a "Caesarism operation," assisted by the strain the history books of the far-istant future there would be a record that "certain islands in the Pacific owed their existence to a swarm of uncouth soldiers and sailors from a distant land across the sea. [Laughter.] Shakespeare must have had this toast, "A Nation's Birth," in his mind when he said, "Who can look into the womb of time, and see what it will bring forth?" Gen. Reeve would deal with this delicate subject more ably than himself.

Gen. Reeve quoted Mark Twain's remark that, while George Washington.

Admiral Dewey cordially thapked usual honors.

Admiral Dewey cordially thapked Gen. Anderson for the kind words he had said, and thanked all present for the reception they accorded to the toast. He continued: "I have only one regret, namely, that I cannot say what I feel. I believe Capt. Glass prepared a few lines of response on behalf of the fleet, but unfortunately he is ill. and could not attend tonight. Capt. Whiting of the Monadnock will read the remarks, which express what I would say. From the bottom of my heart I thank you."

Capt. Whiting, after referring to the regretable illness of Capt. Glass, read the following speech:

"Commander and companions of the Loyal Legion: It is with great pleasure that I attempt to respond to the toast we have just drunk, but I must say that the pleasure is largely dashed with fear of my want of ability to do justice to the sentiment, inspiring as it is; but anyone might well hesitate as to his ability to speak in fitting terms of the achievements of Dewey and his fleet in Manila Bay, achievements of such vast importance to our country at the present time, and in the future destined to influence the history, not only of the whole Anglo-Saxon race, but of civilization itself.

"It was not my good fortune to follow the admiral's flag into action on May 1, but on that account, and from the study I have been able to make of the operations of the sanadron, before and after the action, while events are still fresh in the minds of the principal actors. I may be permitted to speak more freely than others would feel at liberty to do, and if I seem to become too personal in what I have to say. I beg that you will consider that for a few brief moments only I am attempting the role of the muse of history, and putting before you a hasty sketch of a brilliant chapter in our naval annals that will in the future tax the pen of a Mahan or a Namer when it is endeavored to commit to the serious pages of history deads they will delight and encourage men as long as they reverence during and devotion to duty, the watchword

"But the plan had already been ma

ing under the fire of the guns lining to renly. Dewey steered straight for the flag of the enemy at Cavite, to encounter a force greater in number than his cwn, and fully prepared and supported by well-placed shore batteries, and one of the world's greatest naval battles commenced. The story of the battle has been so often and so well told, that we need not at this time recall any incident of the brilliant victory achieved, but the results of these few Sunday morning hours are even now almost beyond bellef, familiar as they have become to us. Without the loss of a single life, and with ships as ready for action as when the first shot was fired, not a single. Spanish, flag was to be seen affoat in the waters of Manila Pay. The power of Spain has been broken and a new empire added to our country, and to civilizatiob.

"Our people, ever ready to applaud gallantry, made of Dewey and his captains the heroes of the day, and rewards, all too small as yet for what they had accomplished, were bestowed upon them. But the smoke of battle clearing away, the thunder of the guns becoming silent, few could appreciate the enormous responsibilities resting upon the successful leader whose task it now was to secure permanently the fruits of the victory and to see that the interests of our country took no harm.

"Then commenced for the commander-in-chlef and all under his command, a period of months of anxious waiting, through days and weary nights of watching and exposure, that would have tried the nerves and resolutions of any men that ever lived. And through it all Dewey was cool and patient, holding Manila in a grasp that never relaxed, and exacting with stern resolution the respect due his country and its flag. In all things he was supported loyally and all things he was supported loyally and all things he was supported loyally and and companions in arms.

"Admiral Dewey, you are right—trusted friends." [Interpolating.]
"Knowing that he had only to deand companions in arms.

"Admiral Dewey, you are right—trusted friends." [Interpolating.]

"Knowing that he had only to demand and receive the surrender of Manila at any time, but not having a force present that could insure order in a captured city of 300,000 inhabitants, the admiral resisted the everpresent temptation, and thus was prevented a scene of bloodshed and plunder that would have been an eternal disgrace to our flag. But when at last troops had arrived, and all prephope that the very stars in their courses, will fight for the great republic, and timered per and three cheers and a tiger for the disgrace to our flag. But when at immortal Destiny claim her for its very own!" [Applause.]

The "Star Spangled Banner" was sung by the company as an accompaniment to the toast.

Gen. Anderson then proposed, amid German displayed and all preparations made. Manila became ours on August 13. after a resistance so slight as scarcely to deserve the name. "So long as men love courage and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and three cheers and a tiger for the displayed and the displayed and the displayed and the cheers and a tiger for the displayed and the displayed and the displayed and the cheers and a tiger for the displayed and the displayed and the displayed and the cheers and a tiger for the displayed and the displayed and the cheers and a tiger for the displayed and the cheers and the cheers and the cheers and the cheers and tiger for the displayed and the cheers and the cheers

Gen. Reeve quoted Mark Twain's remark that, while George Washington could not tell a lie, Mark could, but wouldn't. Gen. Reeve both could and would [laughter.] for he had solemnly assured the toast-master he would not make a speech, and yet here he was making one. There seemed to be a great moral triangle, of which truth was the base, George Washington, who couldn't tell a lie, was one side, Mark Twain, who wouldn't lie, was the other side, and he (Gen. Reeve.) who would, could and did, was the apex! [Laughter.] He was in some doubt as to the meaning of the toast "A Nation's Birth," for if it had been "berth" it might refer to the accommodation on the troopships coming to Maniia. [Laughter.] If it referred, as Gen.

Inaughter.] If it referred, as Gen Anderson suggested, to the doings o the American army and navy in the Philippines, the toast would be mor fittingly treated by one of the physicans, because, so far as could be known by the police department (with which Gen. Reeve is connected) ther might very probably be a new nation born here before very long. [Laughter.] To speak seriously of the birth and development of a new nation possibly under American rule possibly under a protectorate, possibly under their own rules if foun suitable—this was a question on which the authorities would probably nucture, especially from the officer who might have a good deal to dwith carrying out the scheme. Other higher in authority might elucidate the question, which would require a green deal of statements. nigner in authority might entetate tage question, which would require a great deal of statesmanship and legal lore, as well as perhaps military knowledge and naval ability. Owing to the lateness of the hour, he begged the toastmaster to excuse the rest of his speech, and to have the remaining 744 pages printed for private circulation. [Laughter and applause.]

After the singing of "Columbia," Gen. Anderson toasted "The Volunteers," "The Army," and "The Navy," He next introduced the toast of the evening, "The Loyal Legion—may it exist forever, and may it ever find companions as true, as loyal, and as valorous." (Loud applause.)

Gen. MacArthur, in responding, spoke in approval converse deprivate where the companions are true, as loyal, and as calculations of the various celebrations of the various celebrations are supposed to the various celebration of the companions of the various celebration of the various celebration of the various celebratic companions are supposed to the various celebration of the var

Such were the narcow-contracted ideas of that early time in New England. And now American civilization has swept across the continent in great waves that seem likely to spread over the earth. It was a great tidal movement, steadily progressing since the world began. It originated in Central Asia and pressed on, on, ever westward—Persia. Greece, Rome, England, and now who could tell where it would end? "The Battle Cry of Freedom" was then sung after which followed more toasts. Gen. Anderson paid a compliment to the press, and asked Mr. Davis, a well-known New York correspondent, whether the Sun would kindly shine on the meeting, but Mr. Davis did not appear to be present. The president then proposed "Sweethearts and Wives," and as no name had been put down for the response, he asked for volunteers. Mr. Knapp volunteered.

On the call of the admiral, three hearty cheers were given for the toastmaster. On the call of Mr. Williams, three cheers were given for President McKinley.

This concluded the proceedings.

BULLA AND THE S. P.

Reference has heretofore been made In these columns to the despicable methods which have been resorted to by the henchmen of the Southern Pacific Railroad and the agents of Dan M. Burns to induce members of the Legislature to vote for the latter for United States Senator. Instances of these despicable practices are constantly coming to light, which serve to show the utterly unscrupulous character of the efforts which are being employed for the purpose of foisting the man from Mexico into a place of honor and responsibility, for which he is not worthy, and to which he is in

One of the latest instances of undue influence in behalf of Burns by the railroad develops in Riverside. An agent of the Southern Pacific put in an appearance there last Saturday, and began to canvass the town, soliciting prominent Republicans to use their influence with Assemblyman Milice, of the Riverside district, to support the candidacy-not of Dan M. Burns, but

What does this signify? The friends and supporters of Mr. Bulla have all along claimed, with a great deal of unnecessary wehemence, that their candidate was in no sense allied to the Burns-S. P. movement. If this be the case-if there is no understanding, expressed or implied-between the Burns it that an agent of the Southern Pa- the alleged use of money by Mr. Grant cific is in Riverside, working in the interest of Mr. Bulla? It is in order for Mr. Bulla and his friends to explain away this peculiar circumstance, which is certainly not at all creditable to him or his candidacy.

While Mr. Bulla is in the explaining business, it might be well, also, for him to explain how it is-if his candidacy is as untrammeled, as free from extraneous influence, as he would have us to believe-that Southern Pacific influences are so uniformly arrayed in his support. Among these are the Evening Express, Osborne, Parker, Lindley, Arnold and other recognized henchmen of Uncle Collis and his political machine, are working jointly for Bulla and Burns.

Another matter which Mr. Bulla has never yet explained satisfactorily is his introduction and advocacy of the notorious five-blocks street railroad bill in the Legislature of 1897, that it has been used corruptly, THE If that bill had been enacted into TIMES will have its say on the subject. law, its practical effect would have Milton J. Green says, "No friend o been to shut out competition in street Mr. Grant has any reason to think railway traffic in all the cities of the that his campaign has been conducted State of California, and to give to in other than an honorable manner. companies existing and in possession of the streets at the time of its enact- proof is produced to the contrary. As ment a close monopoly of all the for the Evening Conniption Fit and street railway business in their respective cities. Of course, the fiveocks bill is not a direct issue in the pending Senatorial campaign; but there are many well-meaning people in all parts of the State who would like to have Mr. Bulla explain how, in his opinion, the general public would be benefited by a measure which would shut out competition and grant a close monopoly on an important line of isinese, of a quasi-public character, to corporations already holding valuable franchises from the people.

If Mr. Bulla could rid himself support of the Southern Pacific sites-Osborne, Parker, the Express, Arnold, and the rest of the outht-his candidacy would gain much in strength by the loss of such support. So long as it has such support Mr. Bulla's candidacy is utterly and irre-deemably hopeless.

The Nicaragua Canal discussion has reached a point where it will bear close watching on part of the American people. A dispatch from Washington, published in THE TIMES of vesterday announced that the syndicate which has been figuring on the canal work, as opposed to the government plan of construction, is very active at Washington, with representatives about to appear before the House Committee on Commerce, TH Times correspondent at Washington has been informed that the man who is putting up the money for this cana syndicate is declared to be John Rockefeller of New York, and that no stands ready to supply almost any amount.

No doubt, Mr. Rockefeller and his friends would be willing to put up almost any amount of money, for the sake of controlling this great water way between the two oceans. Mr. Rockefeller and his ambitious friends would, doubtless, be willing to put up a considerable amount of money for the privilege of controlling the United States government, but the people of this country are likely to have something to say on that score. If the Nicaragua Canal is to be of such benefit to the people of the Pacific Coast and to the country at large, as we all hope and believe it will be, then it must be controlled by the government not by any syndicate of capitalists who believe in charging "all the traffic will bear." For several years it has been evident that we must expect a quiet, but persistent opposition to the building of the canal on part of railread corporations and others, whose interests might be injuriously affected by the competition of ocean steamships. Apparently recognizing the fact that the public demand for this great improvement is too strong to be sidetracked, these greedy and selfish speculators are now trying to control what they cannot do away with.

A canal through the isthmus, controlled by private parties, might be somewhat better than no canal at all, but it is not what the people of the United States want-it is not what the people will insist upon having, if they are wise.

ANOTHER SPASM.

The snively Express has shifted from plain, everyday fits, and is now in the midst of spasms of virtue, because of in his campaign for the Senatorship Here is Uriah Heap again as large as life and twice as natural. For a newspaper that is indirectly support ing Dan Burns for election to the Senate and that originated and carried out the campaign of sending bogus petitions to Washington in the interest of Mr. Huntington's private harbon at Santa Monica, to complain of corruption in anybody, is really and truly more funny than a cat fight. This is also the same newspaper that thought Mr. Bulla's five-blocks cinch bill on the people of this city to be an excellent thing. Considering these various matters, it appears clear that what the Express doesn't know about Grant. corruption, from the inside, is little worth knowing. As to the use of money in Mr. Grant's campaign, when the Evening Organ of the Southern Pacific Company in this city shows It will be time enough to roar when its baby Bulia bunting fight, what a mess they are making of things!

The subject of the marketing of fruit is one of vital interest to Southern California, and one which has been given much consideration and discussion. The different methods of marketing and the general development of better systems are discussed in the Midwinter Number of THE TIMES.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT SUPPLY.

The gloomy statements made by Sir William Crooke, in his presidential address to the British Association for the Advancement of Science, in September, regarding a coming shortage in the world's wheat supply, have been made the subject of numerous articles in the press of this and other ountries. Some writers have taken the truth of the British scientists statements for granted, while others point out that the figures are greatly at variance with the facts.

It is, indeed, surprising that a man William Crooke's attainments should have been led to make assertions which a little careful inquiry must have shown to be unfounded. He is ably answered in the Popular Science Monthly for December by Edward Atkinson, who has made a study of production and prices of wheat for quarter of a century, and is, besides theroughly well acquainted with the resources of this great wheat-produc-

Sir William assumed that the preent supply is a little short of 2,709,000 bushels, and that in the next thirtythree years the demand will increase about 1,270,060,000 bushels, and that by that time all the available arable land in the world not devoted to other crops will be so fully utilized in whea production that all of it will be needed to give the bread-enters their food Then he asks: "Where can be grown the additional 300,000,000 bushels re quired ten years later by a hungry world?" His only apparent hope of relief is in the use of artificially-produced nitrogen for fertilizing pur poses, and he considers at some length and with much detail, the possibility of obtaining this agent from the air by electrical means.

Mr. Atkinson first points to the fact that, even supposing there should be serious shortage of wheat, there are many substitutes, such as oats, corn and beans. It is, however, not necessary to fall back upon this argument. Mr. Atkinson shows that two-thirds of the land in the United States, not counting Alaska nor the newlyacquired territory, is susceptible of cultivation. On one-tenth, wheat enough could be raised to supply the whole demand of the whole world without having a kernel of it grew anywhere else. Already America produces from 600,000,000 to 700,000,000 bushels (one-third or one-quarter of the total consumption) on a fraction over 2 per cent. of its soil, or about 71,000 square miles.

Disregarding the remainder of the country, Mr. Atkinson shows what might be done in Minnesota and the two Dakotas. Those three States have produced this year 190,000,000 bushels of wheat, or more than enough to meet England's deficit. This amount was grown on twenty thousand square miles, or one-eighth of the arable land of the States in question. In other words, if Minnesota and the Dakotas went into wheat-growing as thoroughly as they might, they could, at the present rate of production, furnish more than double the whole amount now raised in the United States, and four-fifths of the world's present consumption.

Then there is Montana and the ex tensive British provinces in the northwestern part of Canada where it has recently been discovered that wheat may successfully be raised over an extent of territory hitherto undreamed of in that connection. It is safe to say that, with a certainty of dollar wheat for a few years, this continent will undertake to raise sufficient grain to keep our British cousins from going Speaker Wright proposes to drive the newspaper men, who are criticising him for his action in voting for Dan Burns, from the floor of the Assembly Chamber. Evidently Mr. Wright does not known that he is breeding for himself another scab in addition to the one he already wears on his shady reputation.

Now that Southern Pacific agents re openly taking up the cause of Mr. Bulla, it remains to be seen how long his adherents will continue to expatiate upon the "untrammeled" nature of his candidacy. There is such a thing as protesting too much, Mr. Bulla and his friends may yet discover to their discomfiture.

The Bulla managers are still loud n their declarations that Bulla's chances of election are first-class. Are their hopes founded upon the fact that Southern Pacific agents are at work for Bulla in Riverside and presumably other parts of the State?

There is one thing sure; Daniel M. Burns doesn't hold the key to that deadlock and the time is not likely to me when he can put his hands on it. To be spared the disgrace of his election is a victory for the respectable people of California.

Time to Unite the Honest Vote.

The whole company 4s thoroughly adequate as a support to the stars, and the result 's an artistic and well-balanced performance that leaves nothing lacking in its completeness. Yesterday the eighth ballot came and went, bringing no change in the Senatorial status. Grant was sthi in the lead, with twenty-seven votes out of the fifty-eight that are opposing Burns, no other anti-railroad candidate poling more than ten. As for Burns himself, the best he and his corporate masters could do was to hold their own. Not an opponent had skulked after the treacherous Jilson into the relited camp: no one had been seduced by the shabby spectacle of Howard Wright turning his coat into undergoing a similar abasement. It was very different from what had been looked for by those who predicted "great things" for Thursday, and again This evening "Julius Caesar" will be given. "Hamlet" is to be presented at tomorrow's matinee, and "Othello" ORPHEUM. A varied and diverting bill holds the vaudeville boards this week at the Orpheum, the entertaindergoing a similar abasement. It was very different from what had been looked for by those who predicted "great things" for Thursday, and again for Friday, and who claimed that at least ten men were ready to sell their honor for a mess of filthy Candelarian pottage. By yesterday, as the Burns programme had it, the fight was to have been won; but today the nominee of the political slums has but two more votes than he began with, and is still second in the Republican race. To succeed he must add thirty-five names to his pay-roll of infamy, while if his opponents combine their strength they will be within three votes of the

The dis-tinct novelty of the programme which was given its initiatory presentation last night, is the Russian dancing girls, last night, is the Russian dancing girls, the Rappo sisters. These beautiful young women are the poetry of motion and living pictures of feminine grace and activity. Their dance is characteristic of their country—dashing, vivid, picturesque. There is in it the sweep of the Cossack across the steppes, and the dash, elan and verve that are an essential feature of Russian character. To succeed he must add thirty-five names to his pay-roll of infamy, while if his opponents combine their strength they will be within three votes of the goal. It is easier to get three votes than thirty-five. The needed few may even come from the Burns contingent itself, where there are at least that many men who seem to be ashamed of their degraded company. Or they may come from the Democrats, who would like nothing batter than the reputation of having struck down the reiliroad power in its last political ditch and saved the good name of California from disgrace at Republican hands. That they will come from somewhere if the anti-railroad party consolidates its vote is a thousand times more likely than that Burns can induce thirty-five legislators to wade into the sewage where he steeps with his ill-smelling company and stand there while an hon-Teresa Berger, who, if we mistake not, was, years ago, a member of the Peake and Berger family of Swiss bell-ringers, made her first appearance here, and a hit as a cornetist, simultaneously. Her selections are excellent, and her playing superb. There is little show of effort in her work, and there is more of music from the shiming horn she fingers so deftly and less of musical gymnastics than the professional cornetist usually offers. It is high time that the consolidation of decent men was brought about and the scandal of this contest ended. Every man who is against the rule of the Southern Pacific, and the reward, at the expess of the State, of its penal graduates, ought to cease to scatter his fire and begin to make his shots tell. There is no aesier way than to concentrate the whole reputable vote upon Burns's strongest opponent. It has all along been a matter of more or less indifference to us who that opponent might be, for the Chronicle is ready to support any good man who can rally the most fighting strength against the insolent dictation of the railroad bosses. As matters stand that candidate is Ulysses S. Grant. He leads by seventeen votes the strongest of his respectable opponents. Good politics demands, therefore, that he shall be 'chosen to lead the combined forces. Dependable Republicans should cease frittering their votes away, thus giving the associated villalnies now at work for Burns a larger chance to make the name of California a stench in honest nostriis. Then pass the word to unite on Grant! By that name the State can be saved at once from the tra attempted to offer, by keeping up an incessant hand-clapping. As for the act they so persistently encored, it is full of the grotesque, but as a musical feature has nothing whatever to commend it.

Willy Ozeola does something entirely new in the line of equilibrism, which is saying much, as it was thought that the field was long ago reaped to the last straw. He is an artist in his line, but occupies that unfortunate position, the end of the programme, which is so especially trying to the newcomer. HAMBURG EXPOSITION.

Report of the Commission a Full

The report of the commission that The report of the commission that represented California at the International Horticultural Exposition at Hamburg, Germany, in 1897, has just been received by the Chamber of Commerce in this city. Owing to the economic proclivities of ex-Gov. Budd, which resulted in the closing of the State Printing Office, the report is just a year late.

That California was awarded the gold medal for the best exhibit of horti-

It is quite apparent that the economical appropriation was a piece of pennywise and pound-foolish policy, in as much as the lack of funds made it impossible to take the attachés of the exhibit from this country. "From the throng that daily crowded the California exhibit thousands of questions were hurled at the assist-ants, which related to California, her climate, her methods, etc., etc.; ques-tions which the said assistants, be-cause of pardonable ignorance and in spite of continued coaching, could not answer.

Harry Langdon's Sir Peter Teazle was such a beautifully artistic bit of work that he might be called a fourth star in the constellation. answer.

"We were impressed with the importance of having assistants acquainted with the State, and would recommend that in all cases hereafter where funds are available, all the employes around a California exhibit, whether at home or abroad, should be Californians, and, so far as possible, people who are familiar with the State, its characteristics and resources."

The report speaks of a disadvantage to California, resulting out of the awarding of the gold medal to this State. Many of the native exhibitors became jealous of the garden State of this country, and were ready to "knife" California at every opportunity. In this line the commission recommends that the growers of California unite to sell their products at a uniform price, in order that a market for fruits may be secured in Germany and other European countries.

The report shows that despite the fact that Los Angeles and Southern California, contributed in a great measure to the success of the exhibit, all three of the commissioners were appointed from San Francisco and north of there.

Mills of this city, who has just been elected president of the new Linseed Oil Trust, which controls all of the larger linseed oil plants in the country, in discussing the plans of the new organization today, said:
"The output of the trust will continue about as it has been in the past, when the companies were manufacturing independently. The great object is to steady the market and sustain it on a solid basis and make it non-speculative. If anything, prices will be decreased rather than increased. The combination will endeavor to increase and systemize our trade with England, and to get a better footing in the markets of Honolulu and the West Indies."

Mr. Mills said that the capital stock of the consolidated concerns would reach $33,000,000.

Midnight Orgies.

PAX VOBISCUM, Los Angeles: Is it not passing strange that in a constituency of law-abiding people, whose privilege and honor it is to point to an efficient police department, some means cannot be found to suppress the abominable midnight orgies that every Sat inable midnight orgies that every Saturday evening disgrace the Turner Hall on Main street?

Long past the midnight hour last Sunday morning this feast of Belshazzar continued, and the howling, yelling, whistling, in short, a perfect pandemonium, could only be emulated by the throats of ten thousand Apache furies. How long is this to be tolerated. Is the sleep and quiet of peaceable citizens, who room in this neighborhood to be continually at the mercy and feet of this sad order of things?

MILES-MENTONE. Los Angeles: In saloon or gambling house. Each table ette are openly played in every leading saloon or gambling house. Each table has its operator, and the whole game is carried out before the eyes of the player. But Arizona is not as far advanced as matchless California. Here the "sure-thing" gambler puts his device in an oaken box operated by a nickel-in-the-slot, and lets the "sucker" bindly hope that he may win—which he seldom does.

One nickel is not of much value, but nickels make dollars and it's dollars that our wages are paid in. Only a few days ago I saw a laboring man, who has a family, feed $7, his week's wages, to a machine in a down-town bar-room. And after he had lost his last nickel, the kind-hearted bartender called him over and treated him to a 5-cent drink.

The nickel-in-the-slot machine is looked upon by most citizens of Los Angeles as a novelty machine, where one can try his luck with a nickel or a dime and no harm done. But it is more than this. It has all the elements of a full-fledged percentage, gambling scheme. It differs only in the fact that it is mechanical, and the amount played is not large. The principle is the same, and the fact remains that percentage gambling for money is going on in every bar-room in the city.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

The Pasadena hack-drivers have won in their fight against the ordinance preventing them from soliciting pat ronage on the streets. It is to be hoped, however, that they will not, on this account, be so noisy in exercising their rights as to make themselves obnoxious to citizens generally.

Pasadena has a coöperative colony scheme incubating. It is useless, how-ever, to give advice to those who proto enter these communistic com Experience is the only teacher from which they will take a lesson. The latest scheme is always one which will be the exception to all Nathan L. Amster, in a letter to the Globe Times, calls attention to a sub-ject which is worthy of prompt consideration by the people of Arizona, namely, that of making an exhibit at the Paris Exposition in 1900. The great mineral resources of that Territory are, as Mr. Amster remarks, but little known to the world. Capital is needed there, and the Territory cannot afford to miss the opportunity to make itself known abroad.

M. L. Raymond, a Rough Rider who fought in the battles before Santiago, and was afterward honorably dis-charged, is reported by the Arizona Re-publican to be lying critically ill at Maricopa, in a hut made of railroad ties, without means and with no one to care for him. The citizens of Mari-copa have appealed to the officials of the county, but nothing has been done toward meeting the pressing wants of the sick soldier. It is astonishing that there are people of Arizona who will subject themselves to the reproach of such inhumanity, regardless of the fact that the sufferer is one of those who won fame for the Territory by his service in the war.

It is announced that Edgar Van Etten, general superintendent of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, will arrive in this city soon. Mr. Van Etten's visit following that of First Vice-President Charles C. Clarke of the same road, has given rise to the suspicion that something besides pleas-cure prompts his coming. It will be re-membered that Chauncey M. Depew long ago expressed the conviction that the Pacific Coast is to get the greatest benefit from the results of the war, and that the New York Central has been credited with seeking to extend its lines to this Coast. If these offi-cials are in search of a site for a depot, Los Angeles will try to find a plot of ground which they can use.

The all-advised decision of the Board of Supervisors of San Bernardino county to withdraw that county's exhibit from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce has aroused much adverse criticism. The Ontario Observer, an ardent advocate of the horticultural and agricultural interests of San Ber nardino county, sums up the matter nardino county, sums up the matter thus:

"The proposition to withdraw the San Bernardino county exhibit from the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce seems to have nothing to justify it but penury and stupidity. The people who come to Southern California do not as a rule first arrive in this county, but go instead to the southern metropolis and learn there of the immense resources of the outlying country. And the Chamber of Commerce is the school where the tenderfoot may have object lessons concerning the productivity of this God's southwestland. To take away from that school this county's exhibit would not only make the Chamber of Commerce an unsatisfactory exponent of Southern California's resources, but it would redound in no small degree to our disadvantage. We want the easterner's energy and his capital to help make our country great and rich and prosperous. Why set a handicap for ourselves by stupidly withdrawing our advertising from the one place where it can do and is doing the most good?"

Elkhorn Road Extension Rumored.

CASPER (Wyo.,) Jan. 16.—General Manager Bidwell and other officials of the Elkhorn road have gone overland on a trip through Central Wyoming, taking the route surveyed years ago beyond the present terminus of the road. While they did not state the object of the trip, the fact that it is taken at this time of year has revived the rumor that the line is to be extended next season. The Elkhorn from its present terminus is not able to control the business from Central Wyoming as it did before the advent of other roads, and its extension is considered a profitable move.

A serious situation confronts the city in the arbitration of the question of the value of the water company's plant, and the condition of affairs was the basis yesterday for the first real contest that has taken place in the new City Council. The proposition was made to retain ex-City Attorney Dunn and conference Deckweiler for and ex-City Engineer Dockweiler for ten days at a salary of $25 per day for the purpose of completing the presentation of the evidence for the city before the board of arbitration. This was violently opposed by some of the mem-bers of the Council, but a motion for their employment was adopted by a vote of 5 to 4. As six votes are neces-sary to order the expenditure of money n and Dockweiler will not accep the action of the Council and will retire from the case unless they are protected by a contract with the city.

The matter did not come up in public until nearly the last thing in the afternoon session, but privately the Counclimen fought it out hours before there was any public intimation of what was coming. The question on which this division occurred was that of retaining ex-City Attorney Dunn and ex-City Engineer Dockweller in the matter of the water arbitration. They were finally retained by a vote of five to four, but notice was served on the majority of the Council that the end of the matter is not yet.

The water question was, of course, the most important measure before the Council, but there were a number of other matters of more than usual interest to the property-owners.

The financial reports of the officers who have charge of the city's finances were first presented and referred to the Finance Committee.

His recommendation to the Council was that the proceedings be abandoned. On motion of Councilman Pessell the matter was referred to the Board of Public Works.

Ex-City Attorney Dunn, who appeared as the representative of the property on Jefferson street, the final purchase of which had been deferred, asked that the Council allow the board of arbitrators the use of the Council chamber as early as possible in the afternoon. He said the board desired to meet at 3 o'clock to resume work. He was told that the chamber would be vacated as early as the business of the Council permitted.

NÈW OIL WELL ORDINANCE.

NEW OIL WELL ORDINANCE. Attorney R. L. Horton, representing the Westlake Park Improvement and Protective Association, appeared before the Council and presented a draft of an ordinance intended to remedy the defects in the ordinance which was declared illegal by Justice Morrison nearly two months ago. The old ordinance was declared to be defective in that it declared in a preamble that its purpose was to regulate the drainage near the parks, and it did not specify that it was for the protection of the park. There were other points in which the old ordinance was declared to be weak, and the new measure presented by Mr. Horton is intended to covar all the weak points in the old ordinance, and at the same time protect the park from the encroachments of the oil interest. The presentation of such an ordinance was made at this time because of the fact a number of new derricks are being erected within the old 1600-foot limit and the people in the vicinity of Westlake Park fear that their property may be ruined if the work of drilling many oils wells on the side of the hill toward Westlake Park is allowed to proceed.

The new ordinance contains a pre-Attorney R. L. Horton, representing

The ordinance is entitled "An ordinance prohibiting the drilling, pumping or operating of oil wells within a certain distance of the exterior boundaries of Westlake Park, and of Sunset Park, public parks of the city of Los Angeles." The preamble in which the intention of the ordinance is declared, follows:

For the reasons stated in the foregoing preamble, the ordinance provides that it shall be unlawful to drill or operate any oil well within 1600 feet of Westlake or Sunset parks. Each day that such a well is opertead in the district is to constitute a separate offense. The penalty provided for the violation of the ordinance is a fine not exceeding $100 and not less than $10 or imprisonment. All the old ordinances in conflict with the new one are by its provisions repealed.

Mr. Horton, after reading the ordinance, addressed the Council at length on the subject. He pointed to the neace sity for some such protection to the parks, declaring that unless it was afforded the parks would be ruined.

He wanted the ordinance placed upon its passage at once. As there are several legal points involved, the Council thought it would be better to refer the matter to the City Attorney for investigation, and that reference was ordered, the instructions being for the attorney to report on the matter at the afternoon session. In the afternoon city Attorney Haas appeared before the Council and stated that it would be impossible for him to make a report then, as there were several points in the ordinance presented which would require careful investigation. The matter therefore went over until the next regular session of the Council.

MANY BIDS RECEIVED.

So numerous were the bids presented before the Council at 11 o'clock yesterday morning that more than half an hour was required for their opening and examination. Many of these bids were for street work, but in addition to them there were twenty-six bids for engine-house sites in the several districts in which a readvertisement for bids had been ordered by the Council. Among these were a number of bids for a site of an engine house in the Plaza district. When this matter was up before there was quite a controversy over the selection of a site, the offer that was about to be accepted being shown to be so complicated as to excite suspicion in certain quarters as to the regularity of the transaction. A certain tract was offered to the city for $16,000, but the real owners were parting with it on a basis of $9000. This time the same tract was offered for $15,000. All of the bids for engine-house sites were referred to the Board of Public Works in connection with the Board of Fire Commissioners. The street work for which bids were received included the improvement of Witmer street, between Sixth and Orange; the improvement of Twenty-first street, between Toberman and Union avenue; the improvement of Jefferson street, between Toberman and Union avenue; the improvement of Jefferson street, between Toberman and Union avenue; the improvement of Jefferson street, between Toberman and Union avenue and Durango street; the curbing and sidewalking of Edgeware Road between Bellevue and Calumet avenue; the sidewalking of Ninth street between Main and Figueroa streets, and the construction of a sewer on portions of Brooklyn avenue and Breed street. All of the improvement bids were referred to the Board of Public Works, and that for the sewer work to the Sewer Committee.

All of the ordinances which were presented with the report of the City Clerk were adopted under suspensions of the rules. They were final ordinances, ordering certain street work. They have been published heretofore. The City Clerk notified the Council that cer before the Council at 11 o'clock yester-

A recommendation was received from the Board of Police Commissioners, requesting that the Council order the publication of all the city ordinances in book form. It has been ten years since this was done, and there are now thousands of ordinances on file in the City Clerk's office, and it has become a most difficult matter to find certain laws, when they are wanted. The cost of such work would be considerable, and the matter was referred to the Finance Committee to ascertain how the expense could be provided for if it is decided to have the ordinances codified.

When the demands that had been approved by the Finance Committee were taken up, Chairman Toll of that committee explained that as has been the custom the committee had allowed the retiring city officials their salaries for three days in this year during the time that they were engaged in showing their successors their duties. He said that some objection had been made to this by the present officials, who asserted that their predecessors had not worked the three full days, and some of them had immediately upon leaving the city's employ gone to the county and were drawing pay from it. Mr. Pierce moved that the demands be so amended as to allow for only two days' service. that a vacancy existed in the Board of Police Commissioners and moved that the Council proceed to elect such a commissioner. His motion prevailed, and he placed the name of Thomas Goss before the Council for that position. There were no other nominations, and on the call of the roll Mr. Goss was unanimously elected. He is out of the city and will not attend today's meeting of the commission.

Mr. Silver called attention to the fact that the appointments of the new Board of Library Trustees had not been approved by the Council and asked whether the Council desired to take up the matter at that time. He said the nominations made by the Mayor had been held up at the last meeting at the request of the Mayor, and that they were still before the Council. It could not be stated whether the reason why the Mayor desired no action for the present had been removed, and in the absence of such information the Council took no action on the matter.

BEHIND CLOSED DOORS.

Meeting of the Council That Wa not on the Programme.

When the Council adjourned for the oon recess the request was made of the enembers that they assemble promptly at 2 o'clock, as the Board of Arbitrators desired to use the Council hamber as soon as the afternoon ses sion had been completed. All of the members came back to the City Hall in plenty of time to have convened the afternoon session before 2 o'clock, but the session was not called to order until nearly 3 o'clock. There was a crowded lobby waiting for the meeting, for there were a number of matters which there were a number of matters which were to come up in which many people are interested. Several attorneys who wereto address the Council waited and waited, but for nearly an hour there was no public meeting. All this time, however, there was a meeting or assemblage of the Councilmen behind the locked doors of the committee room, in which the proceedings, had they been made public, might have been of much greater interest than the public session.

made public, might have been of much greater interest than the public session.

This session was attended during part of the time by all the members, except. City. Attorney. Haas and City Engineer Olmsted, no one other than Councilmen was present. The proposition was to be made to the Council to retain ex-City. Engineer Dockweller to assist in the presentation of the city's side of the water case before the Board of Arbitrators, and as the Councilmen were called together to assert in the presentation of the city's side of the water case before the Board of Arbitrators, and as the Councilmen were called together to ascertain their opinions of the matter. When it was first mentioned in this informal meeting there was such opposition to it that for a time it was thought the proposition would be hopelessly lost. The two Democreatic members, Messrs. Todd and Pessell, were unalterably opposed to it, and Councilmen Blanchard and Louder were as immovable in their opposition. At first two or three of the other Republican members were not disposed to consider the matter favorably, but when City Attorney, Haas and City Engineer Olmsted explained their views, some of those opposing it changed their minds. Still it was not certain that there was any hope for the measure, and after forty-five minutes spent in arguing the question, it was finally decided to fight it out in open Council, and the members repaired to the Council chamber to begin the afternoon session.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

New Council Equal to the Old in Fighting Qualities.

The first matter to be taken up a he afternoon session was the hearing the afternoon session was the hearing of the appeal of J. G. de Turk from the acts and determinations of the Street Superintendent in accepting the work done in the improvement of Figueroa street between Sixth and Pico streets. Attorney J. L. Murphey appeared for Contractor Austin, who improved the street Attorney T. L. Gibbon, who Attorney J. L. Murphey appeared for Contractor Austin, who improved the street. Attorney T. L. Gibbon, who represented the appellant, stated that his client had owned considerable property on the street at the time the appeal was filed, but a foreclosure had been made against him since then. He had also gone to considerable expense to secure analytical tests of the material used in the street, but not being a man of large means his funds had become depleted, so that he was unable to proceed with the matter. He therefore asked that the appeal be withdrawn. The Council thereupon voted to deny the protest.

The hearing of the protest of M. E. Blake and others against the proposed sewering of Thirty-seventh street between Figueroa street and Wesley avenue had been set for hearing at the same hour. The matter had been referred to the Health Officer some weeks ago, however, and no report had been made on it. The hearing was therefore continued for one week and the clerk directed to notify the Health Officer onake a report.

President Silver informed him that no action had been taken; that the deed had been referred to the committee of the whole, and that no meeting of that committee had been held at which the Copp offer could be considered. Mr. Murphey then asked permission of the Council to withdraw the deed at least temporarily. He said objection had been made to certain features of it by some of the members and he thought it necessary that he consult with his client before doing anything else. He was permitted to withdraw the deed. FIFTH WARD ENGINE-HOUSE SITE property had been filed-with the Council, and the final acceptance of the deed had been deferred pending a disposal of this protest. Attorney John T. Jones appeared for the protestants. He made a long speech, in which he stated that the people in that ward, or at least, those who had signed the protest, did not want the city to pay $2490 for that particular piece of property for the reasons that lots equally as well suited for the purpose could be purchased for less money, and that the price, was far above the value of the lot in question. He declared that the city would have to pay for the construction of a sewer on the streets near the lot, as there is now no sewer there, and this would make the lot cost a great deal more than the oroginal purchase price.

Ex-City Attorney Dunn appeared in as there is now no sewer there, and this would make the lot cost a great deal more than the oroginal purchase price.

Ex-City Attorney Dunn appeared in the interests of Frank Harbert, the owner, of the property, and said that the deed to the property had been recorded, and the title to the property had been with the city for some time. The owner, in order to secure his title again if the purchase was not made, would have to bring suit against the city. Mr. Harbert had visited a number of persons, who had signed the protest, and had secured their signatures to a petition to the Council withdrawing from the orotest and requesting the Council to make the purchase. The congregation of the University Methodist Church wanted the engine house there, he said, as do nearly all the people residing in that section of the Fifth Ward.

Councilman Toll then explained at length how the selection of this particular site happened to be made. He said that it had been the experience of the committee which had made the selections of sites that no matter what site they selected there had been invariably protests against it, either from those who had property to sell or from those who did not want an engine house near their homes. In this instance, instead of having a protest the committee had decided to give them what they wanted. He declared that the location of the place for such a purpose could not be improved upon, and it was the intention of the city after the engine house was erected to improve the place completely and make it a brice exceeding $3000, and he had toid the owner that that price was entirely too high for the matter to be considered. So anxious were the proporty-owners in the vicinity of the place to have the city buy it, that they raised a subscription of several hundred dolars, the payment of which was conditional upon the city's nurchasing the lot. This led recommending, that the bid of M. S. Woods for the improvement of Jefferson street, between Vermont avenuand Durango street be accepted, and the resolution of award be 2dopted. The recommendation was concurred in THEIR FIRST REAL CONTEST.

In the time there had been no reference to the matter about which there had been so much debate during the closed session durning the noon recess, but all the members knew what was coming, and were ready for it when Mr. Toll started the ball rolling by presenting the following motion:

"That the former City Attorney, W. E. Dunn, and City Engineer J. H. Dockweller, be employed by the city during the actual taking of evidence before the board of arbitration, at the same per diem compensation as that now being paid the consulting engineers—already employed herein, to wit, $25, it being understood that such compensation shall be of ten days' duration only, and cover the attendance of said attorney and engineer during the time actually occupied in taking testimony, even though such service should exceed ten days, for which compensation is allowed."

Mr. Baker seconded the motion, and Mr. Toll, noticing that City Attorney Haas was present, asked him to make a statement about the matter. The City Attorney might have told an interesting story of the manner in which the business of that office was conducted about the time he came intofifice had he so desired, but he refrained from doing so. The motion placed him in a peculiar position, and by favoring it and urging the Council to adopt it, he was doing for the interest of the city what few attorneys would do, ask that another attorney be retained and admitting that he was not thoroughly familiar with the case in point. He told why he had been unable to familiarize himself with the case in as few words as possible, and the Councilmen did not then know all that there was behind his statements. "This is a case which has been prepared with great difficulty, and which has required time in its preparation," he said. "Its importance is patent to all the members of the Council, and to make any false steps now might mean the loss to the city of thousands of dollars. It has been an impossibility for me, in the brief two weeks that I have been City Attorney, to thoroughly familiar

City Engineer Olmsted was sent for to give his views on the matter. He said: "If this was a matter in which a private corporation was fighting for a property of such magnitude there would have been no change in the list of attorneys or engineers at such a time, but Mr. Dockweiler would have been retained. I think we should deal with this as any private corporation been retained. I think we should deal with this as any private corporation would. I will be able to grasp the details after thorough study of the notes in my possession, but there are millions involved in this, and it is of great importance that the city's side of the matter be fortified on every possible point. I earnestly hope that th sible point. I earnestly hope that the motion will prevail."

Councilman Toll said that as chairman of the Water Supply Committee, he had prepared a report on the matter before he knew there would be opposition to it. His purpose in doing so was that the public might know that the Council did not take the action proposed with any view to being discourteous to the present city officials, but only because they thought that action necessary. He said—he would present the report as such if It was so desired, but the other members of the committee had refused to sign it, and still refused, or had up to the time of entering the Council chamber. Turning to Messrs, Pessell and Blanchard, he asked whether they still refused, and both declined to sign the report. Mr. Toll said he did not desire to present it as a minority report, but because it presented the matter in a much clearer manner than did the other motion, he would withdraw his first motion and present the report instead, in the form of a motion. He therefore presented the following:

"In the matter of the continued de-

"In the matter of the continued de-liberations of the board of arbitration, which will be resumed today for the first time since the new city officials were installed, it appears highly desir-liberations of the board of arbitration, which will be resumed today for the first time since the new city officials were installed, it appears highly desirable that the valuable services of former City Attorney Dunn and former City Engineer Dockweller be secured to assist in the proper presentation of the city's evidence as to the value of the improvements added to the city's water plant by the lesses thereof.

"The work of the board of arbitration having progressed to an advanced stage under the immediate guidance of the above-named officials, and the remaining work of the board being in fact the culmination of matters with which these officials have had personal charge and supervision for years past, it becomes the part of good judgment and ordinary business procedure for the city to avail itself of the experience gained by these gentlemen.

"Such an arrangement would be in full accord with the judgment of the present City Attorney and Engineer. The present officials are willing and fully prepared to take up this work where the others left off, but, realizing that a complete change of attorneys and a partial change of engineers in the midst of the trial of an ordinary case would be regarded as a dangerous procedure, such a step at this juncture of a controversy of such magnitude would be very unwise and in utter disregard of the vital interests of the people.

"It is therefore moved that the serices of Mr. Dunn as counsel and M vices of Mr. Dunn as counsel an Dockweiler as consiting engine retained during the actual tak evidence before the board of a tion at the same rate of compet

We know how it was stated on the streets that the city would pay no more than that for the water sysem. Now he is supplanted by another engineer, a good competent man. Suppose the arbitrators should arrive at a conclusion to give the company a much higher figure than the engineer's estimate after we had refused for a paltry $500 to retain the services of that engineer and attorney. Would not the people say it was all a design, a trick whereby the city was to be made to pay a higher sun than the plant was worth? I believe we are dependent on the engineers and attorneys. Througnout this we have been in their liands. They have said we need this cr that, and we have given it without question. We have had to have confidence in them. He declared that he did not fear criticism in the matter, and was willing to leave his record of two weeks to the Council or to any fair-minded person. "I do not desire more than I honestly believe the exigencies of the case demand," he said, "and I promise that the services of the addit days at $25 per day, these former city officials will not accept the offer, and as a result of the controversy over the motion the Board of Consulting Engineers have decided to jump over the traces and refuse to play in the city's yard, for the present, at least.

After the adjournment of the Council yesterday afternoon the contest over the motion was the source of much worry to some of the consulting engineers. They did not like the open statement of City Attorney Haas that he had not had an opportunity to examine the evidence, and the Council had not adjourned five minutes before Engineer Lippincott appeared at the City Attorney's office and furnished him with a copy of most of the proceedings. A few minutes ater Engineer A. H. Koebig appeared and withdrew the documents "for the purpose of making a few corrections" it was stated.

Then it became known that the Board drew the documents "for the purpose of making a few corrections" it was stated.

Then it became known that the Board of Engineers had decided that they would not proceed unless they were protected by a contract with the city and for a time it looked as if some lively times might be expected when the water arbitrators meet this morning. One of the members of the Finance Committee saw some of the members of the board, however, and an agreement was reached whereby they are to present their claim for a contract at the regulr meeting of the Finance Committee Saturday morning. They had not announced last night whether in the mean time they will proceed with the city's work in the water case, for which they are being paid at the rate of $25 per day.

Lunn and Dockweller will not accept the Council's action. The latter said last night that he and Dunn would simply withdraw from the case, as they realized that the vote of the Council means nothing. The motion provided for the expenditure of money and such matters must have six votes before the expenditure is legalized. "We might do the work and then have to whistle for our money," said the ex-City Engineer. "We feel that we have been sat upon by the Council, and before we enter the case we will demand a contract."

It is therefore probable that the Board of Arbitrators will not do much until the Council in some manner set.

It is therefore probable that the Board of Arbitrators will not do much until the Council in some manner settles the matter, or until the City Engineer has had a sufficient opportunity to familiarize himself with all the details of the case.

Dolores M. Vejar, the Mexican from

Dolores M. Vejar, the Mexican from whom the cattle were stolen, testified to his stock having been stolen, and also to having identified his brand on the hide found in Flournoy's possession. The witness was getting along swimmingly until the time for the noon recess, but when he learned that he would have to be back in court at 2 o'clock, he became angry. He wanted to go home, and as Judge Smith passed the witness stand going toward his chambers, after leaving the bench, Vejar smacked his hands violently above the august cranium of the court in emphatic disapproval of the order that he return.

After Vejar's testimony in the afternoon, Romaldo Lopez was put forward by the prosecution. He is the star witness of the prosecution, for he it was, it is alleged, who actually stole the cattle, and, according to his previous statements, entered into an agreement with Flournoy that he should steal the stock and Flournoy would take the animals off his hands at an agreed upon rate. This is not exactly what the witness testified to yesterday however. He conceded that he had sold two bunches of cattle to the defendant, and under an agreement, but Deputy District Attorney McComas could not prevail upon Lopez to tell what was said by the witness and Flournoy, respectively, at the time when the stipulation of trade was entered into. through an interpreter. Speaking generally he said that the defendant knew that the cattle were stolen, but further than, that he would not go. Lopez either would not or could not tell any of Flournoy's conversation that would specifically show a guilty knowledge on his part.

Nick Miller, who acted as interpreter between the defendant and Lopez when he went upon the witness stand, stated positively that during the interview nothing was said about "stolen" cattle. Lopez told Flournoy, according to this witness, that he had several head of cattle that he wand to sell, and asked the defendant if he would purchase them. When the latter consented to make the purchase, the price was agreed upon, and that's all there was to it.

Vernon Crulkshank, a boy in Flournoy's employ, told much the same story as at the preliminary examination. He described how he slept in the shop at Old Mission, and how when Lopez brought cattle to the corral it was always at night time, and he would be awakened to open the corral. Although the boy's testimony appeared straightforward enough, it in itself only tended to cast suspicion on the transactions between the defendant and Lopez. The weakening of the latter on the witness stand practically means a weakening of the enter prosecution.

AN INVALID ORDINANCE.

Judge Trask Holds That Pasadena Hackmen May Use All Streets.

The hack ordinance of Pasadena has been declared to be invalid, and Judge Trask, in rendering his decision, has worded his opinion in a very strong and outspoken manage and the collection and anguish upon her and seized her by the meck and by vielent and angry manner" ejected Mrs. Emerson from the house. This lend and prostrated her so as to actually endanger her health. Trask, in rendering his decision, worded his opinion in a very strong and outspoken manner. The validity of the ordinance was challenged in the habeas corpus proceedings in the case of E. F. Knox, who had been arrested for standing with his hack on Ray-mond avenue and soliciting business That avenue is within the district made taboo to hackmen and others by the ordinance in question, the street railroad companies, however, being speci-fically mentioned as being exempted from the operation of the ordinance. The contention was made that spe-cial privileges had been granted to street railroad companies, but Judge Trask holds that the ordinance confers no right or privilege that is not inclno right or privilege that is not inci-dent to the proper use of their fran-chise. Street rallroad companies have the right to solicit and receive passen-gers upon their cars, and this being so the ordinance has conferred on their no new right.

In passing upon the objection that the ordinance prohibits lawful business, is unreasonable, in restraint of trade, and is not a constitutionally valid exercise of the police power, the

The main objection raised was that the object of the proposition to replace the present foul brood law is to compel the County Supervisors to appoint bee inspectors, where, under the existing statutes, it is optional. The inciting cause, it was represented, was the removal of the Ventura county inspector, and the initiatory step to secure such legislation was the work of a few beekeepers of that county, assisted by one from Los Angeles county, who resides near the county line. The only indorsement the bill received at the sessions of the State Bee-Keepers' Association was the vote of seven persons, and one of the seven stated the bill was defective.

The board, in dealing with the matter, passed a resolution to the effect that the board is of the opinion that no change in the law bearing upon the matter should be made; and the clerk was instructed to forward a copy of the resolution, with a copy of the communication forwarded by the Bee-Keepers' Association of Los Angeles county, to Assemblyman Melick.

Cyrus F. Cooke having been elected a Justice of the Feace for El Monte township, at the last general election, and having failed to take the oath of office in time, was yesterday appointed to the position by the board, en petition.

YACHT COMPANY SUED. trade, and is not a constitutionally valid exercise of the police power, the court asks:

"Can a board of trustees make it a public offense, punishable by fine and imprisonment, 'to solicit passengers, baggage or freight' upon public streets? It would not be reasonable to hold that a wagon, or other vehicle, with signs painted upon it, soliciting baggage, freight or passengers, could not be driven along the public streets of a city. The transportation of freight and passengers is lawful and necessary business. This business can not be prohibited in a sparsely settled district, and surely it cannot be prohibited upon the principal business streets. How it can be transacted without any solicitation is not perceived. To hold that any person engaged in such lawful business can not try to obtain employment upon a public street, the very place where he would be most likely to find it, is to deny to such person one of the most essential attributes of his business. The rights of the people should not be frittered away by the imposition of such unnecessary, unreasonable and burdensome restraints upon lawful business or occupations."

by the imposition of such unnecessary, unreasonable and burdensome restraints upon lawful business or occupations."

During the hearing of the case it was urged by the prosecution that though that part of the ordinance making it unlawful 'to solicit passengers, baggage and freight', should be held to be invalid, still, the other portion of the ordinance making it unlawful 'to solicit passengers, baggage and freight', should be held to be invalid, still, the other portion of the ordinance making it unlawful to use certain streets 'for a carriage, bus, hack or wagon stand for the purpose of soliciting passengers,' etc., might be upheld.

"An ordinance," says the court, "must be certain and definite in its definitions of an offense. The liberties of the citizen should not be jeopardized by his arrest and prosection for alleged crimes that are not clearly defined by statute. How long a hack or other vehicle may stand in the street while its driver is receiving or soliciting passengers or freight is not stated. The ordinance does not declare against habitually using the street for the purposes mentioned. This ordinance being penal in its nature, must be construed strictly, and must clearly embrace the offense charged. . . . The ordinance declares that portions of certain streets shall not be used for the purpose of soliciting passengers, etc. And this 'purpose' is a lawful and proper purpose. An ordinance cannot deny the use of a public state to certain persons engaged in a lawful and unobjectionable business, while permitting its use by all other persons. Such discrimination against certain classes is unwarranted and ilegær.

"Whenever it is desired to prevent the unnecessary blocking up of the streets by all vehicles, including those of teamsters, hackmen, peddler—and others, an ordinance can be framed that will accomplish such results. But the provisions of this ordinance are directed, mot against the use of streets as carriage stands, but against their use as carriage stands, but against their use as carriage st or soliciting passengers, baggage or freight."

"It should be no crime to try to obtain honest and lawful employment, even though such employment be asked for upon the streets of a city. And persons engaged in the transportation of freight and passengers should have the same rights, in the use of the streets, as are accorded to others. Furthermore, whenever an ordinance declares a public offense, the acts constituting such offense must be described and defined with such certainty as will enable people of ordinary intelligence to know when the offense has been committed.

"The ordinance is invalid. Let the petitioner be discharged."

THE KUNS DIFFERENCES.

Nathantel Kuns Cited for Throwing

The differences that have been agitating the Kuns household were again aired yesterday before Judge Clark, in Department Two. On November 1, an order of court was made that the defendant, Nathaniel Kuns, the Santa Monica dentist, should pay his wife. Louisa Kuns, $15 as costs, $50 as at-torney's fees, and $30 a month as all-mony, pending a determination of the suit. The allmony for November and suit. The alimony for November and December was paid, but the remainder of the order was not compiled with, and on December 15 Mrs. Kuns had the husband cited to show cause.

On January 5 Mrs. Kuns had another citation issued for an additional cause of offense on the part of her husband. In her affidavit filed in court she stated that on December 24 her husband visited the house, while a friend, a Mrs. Emerson, was making a social call upon her. Her husband then, according to her allegations, in a "rough, uncouth and boisterous manner, ordered" Mrs. Emerson to leave the house, and when that lady refused to take her de-

SEEKING A JUDGMENT. The First National Bank of Los Angeles has begun suit against Walter S. Maxwell and Amelia C. Maxwell, his wife, to recover $5167.05, with 7 per cent. interest from April 7, 1894. A mortgage against the defendants was foreclosed in February, 1894, for $10,161.95, and the amount now claimed is to satisfy a deficiency judgment.

A NORTHERN CORPORATION. Baker & Hamilton, the San Francisco firm, yesterday filed a certified copy of incorporation papers in this county. The firm incorporated on December 8, 1898, with a capital stock of $1,000,000, divided into 10,000 shares and with $600 subscribed, or one share to each of the incorporators.

SENTENCED ON CONFESSION.
William Burns and Henry Raymond, two very young and well-appearing fellows, and John Ryan, a much more hardened looking offender, surprised Judge Smith and the prosecuting attorney yesterday by pleading guilty to the charge of burglary. One afternoon they effected an entrance into a house on Twenty-first street, while all the members of the family were absent, and stole two plated breast pins of nominal value. The defendants said they wanted the whole matter ended at once, and thereupon Judge Smith sentenced each one to San Quentin for two years.

Police Officer Matuskiwitz, who was sent to Winslow, Ariz., to bring back to this city Anna Bibby, the old fiame of Joe Hunter's, returned to the city on Sunday accompanied by the woman. Miss Bibby has told her story to the District Attorney, and the bare allegations of the affidavit which was sent down from Los Angeles for her to sign in the Clark case have been more than sustained. Inasmuch as ingenuity is being exhausted in the attempt to have any evidence that may be offered at the Hunter trial exploited and discounted beforehand, the District Attorney has taken the precaution that such methods shall, so far as he can provide for, be confined to the defense, and with that end in view he has provided Miss Bibby with an abiding place where she is not likely to be disturbed.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Wilbur appeared for the County Treasurer, and his argument practically amounted to leaving the matter in the hands of the court, for as he stated, if the matter had not been brought into court it would still have been the duty of the District Attorney to institute suit against the County Treasurer, if the charge is really an illegal charge. Incidentally, however, it was mentioned that if the letter of the law had been violated that was in consequence of an action brought at late date to compel the Supervisors to print a large number of registers that were unnecessary, and perfectly useless for any purpose.

CURRENCY REFORM. Representative Fowler of New Jersey of the Committee on Banking and Currency says: intree on Banking and Currency says:
"At the end of two squarely-fought contests over the single gold standard and a sound currency, the Republican party finds that it will be in power in every legislative branch of the government after the 4th of March, 1899. Clearly, it would be unwise for the Committee on Banking and Currency to take up during the present session for discussion and determination in the House any single proposition affecting our government finances or looking to currency reform. The whole subject should be made the occasion for calling an extra session of the Fifty-sixth Congress, immediately after the 4th of March for the exclusive purpose of dealing with this most important mater. The most intelligent public thought on the question demands an extra session; the people expect it, and the fallure of the President to call it would result in bitter disappointment, for all must realize that such failure on his part involves the financial tranquility and commercial prosperity of the country, and, indeed, might involve our national honor itself."

To say the least, that is putting the case forcibly. It is too forcible. No tional honor itself."

To say the least, that is putting the case forcibly. It is too forcible. No clamor exists here for an extra session Indeed, as matters go, the country would be willing to wait until the regular session opens next winter.

FABRICS MARKET. The week about to close, says the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, has witnessed the largest amount of reorder business on light weights of the entire season, and as the year nears its close most woolen manufacturers will find that they still have a great deal to be thankful for. The reorder business this week has been rather more general than heretofore, nearly every line in the men's wear department feeling some of its beneficial effects. Some of the makers of the lower grades of goods have booked quite a little business, which would seem to prove that even at a time when the tendency is toward a higher quality of goods, there are still many clothing manufacturers who rely for the bulk of their business on the lower-grade fabrics.

Fancy worsteds and cassimeres from $1.25 to $2, and piece-dyed cheviots and fancy-patterned serges, herring-bones and broad-wales, have been the most favored fabrics in the duplicate business which was doing during the week. The cloak trade is having a little rush just now for long garments, chiefly of fight colored kerseys, which is being felt in a limited degree by the woolen trade, who have the desired fabrics for quick delivery. Preparation, though not on a stupendous scale, are going on for the spring season, which it is thought in some quarters will be inaugurated earlier than usual. The general tenor of the woolen-goods market is excellent, and very hopeful of good things, though expectations are formed on a much more modest and reliable trasis than last season.

VHAT MANUFACTURERS DO. he State of Oregon is in every way great commonwealth. One of its in an article on its farm, thus sums up: "In all, we roducts, thus sums up: "In all, we hay safely place the value of Oreagricultural products for 1898 at 35,000,000. Of this amount probably 10,000,000 is consumed on the farm, eaving $25,000,000 worth for market." The seven southern counties of California would come very near that record, and there are few products of Oregon farms which may not be of Oregon farms which may not be duplicated here. We could not equal the $10,000,000 worth of wheat produced there. nor the wool, worth $2,500,000. But the citrus fruit crop of Southern California will come very near in value the wheat of Oregon. The 2000 cars of beans of this section will run that figure pretty close. Add our grain to our oranges, and our wool to our bean crop, and we will match the two leading crops of the Webfoot State. Our hay crop will offset theirs; our deciduous fruit crops will exceed our deciduous fruit crops will exceed theirs; our dairy products will run close to theirs; and thus step by step we will march by their side. But Portland does a great deal more business than Los Angeles does. The reason is that the northern cities have so many more manufacturing interests than we have. And here is where we must look for growth in the future. We must increase our manufacturing capacity to increase our business.

NEW YORK, Jan. 16.—The week opened with transactions again reaching the million-share mark, closing with irregular net changes, losses prevailing. London, it was estimated, sold altogether 75,000 shares, nearly half of that amount in the first quarter of an hour. There was no market news of importance. Standard shares were in heavy demand all the morning, all the Grangers making new records for high prices. The evidence of support to leading stocks was followed by bursts of strength elsewhere, after a period of hestiancy in the early dealings. There was a rise in Federal Steel on the continued good demand for iron products, but the advantage gained was not fully retained. PASADENA, Jan. 16 .- [Regular Correspondence.] With its six tall stories all flashing with electric lights, its Moorish roofs and minarets traced against the sky in blazing minarets traced against the sky in blazing outlines of red and green, festoons of many-colored langurus swinging from all its flagstaffs, hundreds of feet above the city, and its thousand electric torches exchanging anlutes with the great search-light on Echa Mountain, the new Hotel Green tonight looked like some great temple of the fire worshipers. Its formal opening was an event in which all Pasadena took pride, and an account of superb brilliancy. Three hands event in which all Pasadena took pride, and an occasion of superb brilliancy. guests of the hotel to glorify the affair, and such a combination of wealth, gorgeousness and beauty was never seen here.

A full description of this immense structure, representing an outlay of a quarter of a million dollars, has appeared in The Times. It was nearly two years building. The last touch having been put on by the decorators and furnishers, and the birthday of Col. G. Green, its owner and originator, failing on this 16th of January, preparations were made to dedicate it this evening to the, rites of hospitality, and they were carried out in the same regal spirit which has marked every stage of this great enterprise.

Every train today brought visitors from Los Angeles and other parts of the State, to participate in the reception, 1500 invitations having been issued. From 7 to 9 p.m. people poured into the new structure. Its mosaic tiled floors were thronged with stunning costumes, while its onyx wainsecoting reflected the glint of many diamonds. In the south reception parlor, whose luxurious divans were set off with a hundred magnificent toilets, Mrs. G. G. Green, Miss Green, wife and daughter of the proprietor, with J. H. Holmes, manager of the hotel, and Mrs. Holmes, received, opposite the famous green fireplace, the most stupendous ingle in California, alight this evening with the searlet flames of the poinsettle. It was the misfortune of Col. Green to have been taken down with la grippe today and to be confined to his room, a disappolntment to the thousand guests, as well as to himself. People strolled through the splendid suites, admired the gorgeous draperies, handsome carvings and beautiful ornaments, and came to the conclusion that Col. Green has the largest number of luxurious easy chairs in his house, of any man in town.

tous easy chairs in his house, of any man in town.

A favorite resort was the Moorish bridge, 205 feet long, stretching across South Raymond avenue, and forming an imposing reception gallery, where a large mandolin orchestra of Venetian girls played throughout the evening. Everybody visited the roof garden and the glass ballroom on the tip top, which was artistically draped with green and red, the colors of the hotel. Deneing began here at 10 o'clock, and it was so high in the air, and in the midst of so many electric lamps, that it seemed like a ball among the stars. At the same time dancing was going on in the other wing of the hotel, and before midnight 300 people were keeping time to the fiddles. There are many guests of wealth and fashion at the Green, a goodly number of Pasadena and Los Angeles beauties were present, and the two ballrooms were faselinating pictures of brilliant festivity.

"NOT GOOD IF DETACHED."

Some friction has grown out of the new rule of the electric railroad company with regard to detached tickets. A block of tentickets, good between Pasadena and Los Angeles, is sold for $1. the rate for a single fare being 15 cents and for single return trips 25 cents. It has been possible for a buyer to divide up a block among various members of his family, but the legend "Not good if detached" has been stamped on these tickets. The management say they have had to do this for self-protection. Cigar dealers and peddling them out, so that the sale of single fares and single return trips had almost come to an end. It was in these fares, the management state, that the profits of the road lay, and not in the lo-cent tickets. In order that the road, and not greeulators, might do the ticket-selling, thesew rule has gone into effect. You must let the conductor tear of your commutation.

FOLLOWED HER HUSBAND.

An affecting instance of union in death culminated in this city today, when the widow of the late Rev. W. R. Jones died, six days after the decease of her husband, whose obsequies took place in the Methodist Church last Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Jones had solourned through forty-seven years together, and when he was taken she prayed that she might follow on. Each was 71 years old. Both were born in South Wales, came to this country when about 21, and settled in Wisconsin. They were married in 1852.

In the old country Mr. Jones followed the occupation of a carpenter, preaching occasionally to his neighbors. After residing in America a few years he went to a theological school and fitted himself for the ministry. Continuing to live in Wisconsin till 1878, he moved to Nebraska, and he was for two years a presiding elder in that State. He came here from Nebraska in 1889, and with his wifelived a retired life in this city, ever taking a great interest in the advancement of Methodism.

MACCABEE'S EVENT. MACCABEE'S EVENT.

A large number of ladies and gentlemen attended the double installation of the Maccabees in Odd Fellows' Hall this evening, and it was an occasion that gave great satisfaction to them all. The Lady Maccabees first installed and did their work in a manner which elicited much applause from the Knights. Then the installation team of the Knights took the floor, and they broke the record for a fine drill. After the ceremonies proper, they gave a fancy drill in their full regalia, belmets, shields and spears. A movement which aroused much enthusiasm was the formation of the letters "K. O. T. M." by the twelve Knights. The letters were as plain as if put on the floor with a brush, and the alignment was just pat.

All eyes are turned toward Southern California as the place for investment. Money is plentful in the East, and good investments at more than 2 or 3 per cent. are scarce. The feeling of returning confidence is getting stronger Gally, Money: is looking toward California, especially in view of the fact that the ocean is to be made a path for a new and unlimited commerce. With the ratification of the treaty, I expect to see such a development in California, especially Southern California, as has not taken place in the United States since the building of Chicago. The rapid development of the West after the war of the rebellion built that city. And now we are to see California built up as a result of this Spanish war.

the weapon was a card bearing the legend above quoted. At the very moment that Reynolds pulled the trigger his mother was at the office of Dr. Pritchard seeking advice as to her son's condition. The doctor informed her that he would not be surprised at anything he did, as he was in a very nervous and melancholy mood. When Mrs. Reynolds returned to her home she found that the worst had happened, and was in consequence overwhelmed with grief.

As soon as Dr. Pritchard arrived on the scene he notified the undertakers, Peck & Chase, who immediately removed the body, and other evidences of the tragedy, before ever the Corone; was notified or had time to go to view the remains.

Coroner Holland was very much incensed by this hasty action, and spoke his mind freely last night. When he went to Peck & Chase's morgue he found no one in charge there, except a negro-attendant. The-colored man told the Coroner that he had re authority to let anyone see the body, but Dr. Holland replied that he had re authority to let anyone see the body but Dr. Holland replied that he had re authority to let anyone see the body but Dr. Holland replied that he had re authority to let anyone see the revolver which was also talen to the undertakers' establishment.

Coroner Holland will hold an inquest over the remains of young Reynolds today.

of the city engineers, and those of the water company would come anywhere near the agreement on the value of the water plant of the city, and yet that there should be a difference of a mil-lion and a half dollars in the esti-mates of the value of the plant makes it look as though someone was per-

The engineers employed by the city and those employed by the water company have prepared their reports, and it was the intention to have them presented at a meeting of the water ar-bitrators yesterday afternoon, in the Council chamber, but as the Council was in session, the arbitrators did cil was in session, the arbitrators did not meet, and the matter went over until 10 o'clock am. today.

The documents which will be presented by the engineers in the form of testimony are voluminous affairs, each of them going into all the details of the plant, and showing in each case the reasons for the estimates of value made. The values are supposed to be those of the plant, as it stands today, with all necessary deductions for wear and tear and allowances for appreciation of values.

The report made by the city engineers bears their signatures, as follows: James D. Schuyler, Arthur L. Adams, A. H. Koebig and J. B. Lippincott. A summany of their report follows:

Engineer Henry Hawgood also made an estimate for the water company, having been in consultation with Mr. Purcell, though differing somewhat with him. He estimates the cost of replacing the plant at $2,082,648, to which he adds as two years' net earnings, $300,000, making a total present value of $2,382,648.

The work of harmonizing these estimates will now be undertaken by the arbitrators, and the task will probably consume considerable time:

Squeezed in the Machinery.

Arthur Hilary, a young machinist engaged at the Frost building, was engaged at the Frost building, was pretty badly squeezed and injured on the scalp yesterday forenoon while making some alterations on the elevator.

Hilary had attached to the elevator safety brakes, which were too anxious to begin work, as the cage stopped at the third floor. Hilary got inside the shaft, on top of the cage, and was hammering at the brake. The cage suddenly jumped up, about two feet, throwing Hilary between the cage and the frame, bruising his scalp and squeezing him. He was removed to his home. Hilary sald the accident was due to his own carelessness, and not to any defect in the elevator.

Hudyan Cured William Last J. Filking.

Los Augeles, Can To Whom It May Concern: -

I wish to certify that I have been perfectly and permanently cured of a severe case of Nervous Debility by the use of the wonderful remedy Hudyan. Before using it, I was both a mental and physical wreck. I could perform no manual labor of any kind and was disgusted with life. I was unable to sleep at night and would awake in the morning feeling as tired as when going to bed.
Through the day I felt dull and drowsy and always had a headache.
My back pained me severely, especi-My back pained me severely, especi-ally if I had to stoop over. I also had a pain between the shoulders, almost constant and had twinges of pain shooting through my lower limbs. I had no appetite at all and was becoming very emaclated; in fact, I had the appearance of a man in the last stages of consumption, and many of my friends thought I was afflicted with that dread disease. I had tired of physicians and medicines and it was only after a great deal of persuasion that I was induced to try Hudyan, I must confess that I had but little faith in beginning its use. I did not expect to note any change for a long time, and I was very much surprised, but greatly pleased, when I found that my back was becoming stronger and my nerves more steady. I continued the use of Hudyan, following all directions closely, and now I am perfectly cured. I have not one of my former symptoms and should I notice any tendency to a return of them, you may rest assured that I will resume the use of Hudyan, for I am certain that if I had not used it I would now be in a worse condition than I was before. I would now be in a worse condition than I was before.

Gratefully yours,
